BRITISH SHHELLS WARN FIGHTING SPANISH

Two-day Sitting Of British House Of Commons Noisy

During Uproar Following Labor Member's Statement Sir John Simon, Home Secretary, Tells "Lies," Deputy Speaker Suspends Sitting Fifteen Minutes

G. Buchanan and Another Barred

Canadian Press
London, July 23.—George Buchanan, hot-tempered member of the Independent Labor Party, in the House of Commons today accused Home Secretary Sir John Simon of "lying."

An uproar immediately broke out in the House and the session was suspended by the Deputy Speaker for fifteen minutes. Buchanan represents the Gorbals district of Glasgow.

The outbreak came in the course of an extended sitting which began yesterday.

Sir John, in his speech on unemployment, spoke of the responsibility of children in supporting their parents.

MANY INTERRUPTIONS
Labor members had started the noisy clamor when the Home Secretary began speaking, continually interrupting him.

Buchanan, his face red and his arms flailing, rose and shouted, "You're not telling the truth; you are lying."

He refused a demand that he withdraw his statement.

Campbell Stephen, another I.L.P. member, said "I hope every member of the Labor Party will refuse to allow this debate to go on. Why should we listen to this liar, deliberately lying?"

When Sir John Simon spoke of children's responsibility for supporting parents, Jock MacGowan, an Independent Labor Party man from Glasgow, broke in with:

"Why doesn't the King support his mother?"

The Deputy Speaker finally left his seat, automatically suspending the session.

TWO SUSPENDED
Buchanan and Stephen were suspended by a vote of the House. Buchanan, jamming his hands in his pockets, stalked out, his face livid. Stephen followed a minute later, passing ten extra policemen who had been called into the lobby.

BY-ELECTIONS IN ENGLAND

Commons Contests in Balham, London, and East Grinstead, Sussex

Canadian Press
London, July 23.—By-elections were held today in two constituencies to fill vacancies in the House of Commons.

One vacancy, in the London borough of Balham, and Tooting, was caused by the resignation of Sir Alfred Butt, Conservative, arising out of the "budget leak" inquiry last May.

The other, in the county constituency of East Grinstead, in East Sussex, was caused by the elevation to the peerage in the King's birthday honors list of Sir H. S. Cautley, also a Conservative.

Both were straight party fights today between Conservative and Labor candidates. In Balham and Tooting Lt.-Col. G. Doland was the Conservative candidate, opposing Capt. W. J. Miller, in East Grinstead A. E. Miller, Labor, and Col. R. S. Clarke, Conservative, were the candidates.

Balham and Tooting comprises a large slice of South London. It is almost wholly occupied by clerks and artisans. Many of the constituents are holidaying at present. A fleet of automobiles brought numbers of them to vote from seaside resorts. The riding hitherto has always been Conservative.

In East Grinstead hours of polling were extended for the benefit of haymakers. It was the shortest campaign in the riding's history, but the candidates thoroughly covered 400 square miles. Col. Clarke is well known locally as a sportsman. He was wounded at Beersheba, Palestine, during the Great War.

Fights in Morocco---Battles In Spain

Numbers of blockhouses like that pictured at the left above dot Spanish Morocco. Seized by the rebels, many have been used to hold off loyal government troops. The map of Spain, right above, shows the position of the chief cities which are figuring in the news of battles and mobilizations.

To Spend $100,000 On Malahat Work

Tenders for Reconstruction of Famous Highway Opened With Other Bids in Dominion-Provincial Programme Today; Jordan River Road Work Also to Go Ahead Soon

Contracts for approximately $100,000 worth of highway work on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland were opened today by Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, signaling the start on the $1,500,000 highway programme agreed upon by the Dominion and provincial governments.

Bids closed at noon and Mr. MacPherson opened them immediately. Twenty contractors, newspapermen and departmental officials were present in Mr. MacPherson's office for this business.

Contracts for the work probably will be awarded next week and the projects will get under way by the end of the month, Mr. MacPherson indicated. Bids must be segregated and examined in the meantime.

Of greatest interest on Vancouver Island was the Malahat Drive project, which calls for the reconstruction of 4.7 miles of that famous road between Mile 13 and Mile 19, extending roughly from Goldstream to just past the Shawanigan cut-off road. This will bring that section of the Malahat up to modern standards.

The bids entered on the Malahat work were: R. E. Page, $97,557; Associated Engineering Co. Ltd., $105,790; Coast Quarries Ltd., $107,209; General Construction Co. Ltd., $109,220; Dawson Wade & Co. Ltd., $109,830; Parfitt Bros. Ltd., $125,046.

Ministers Not At Reception

Hon. Ian Mackenzie and Hon. C. G. Power Fail to Arrive in Paris

Canadian Press
Paris, July 23.—For the second time within a few hours an official reception for Hon. C. G. Power and Hon. Ian Mackenzie missed fire today when the Canadian Minister of Pensions and Minister of National Defence failed to arrive.

Today Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian Minister to France, with Madame Roy and others gathered at the Gare du Nord to meet the train from Arras on which the legation had been informed the ministers were traveling. The train arrived on schedule, but to the consternation of all, the ministers again were not among the passengers.

Last night Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, with French officials, assembled at the station with the same results.

Today's reception was not wasted, however, as the greetings were transferred to Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war-time Prime Minister, Sir George Perley and Lady Perley, whose train came in five minutes after the one by which Mr. Power and Mr. Mackenzie had been expected.

Pope to Rule on Coughlin's Words

Associated Press
Vatican City, July 23.—A high United States prelate said today Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin's political activities and a recent speech in which he called President Roosevelt "a Hun" had caused "a painful impression" at the Vatican.

Pope Pius, nevertheless, will await the report of Bishop Michael Gallagher of Detroit before taking any action. Bishop Gallagher is Father Coughlin's ecclesiastical superior, and now is en route to the Vatican.

Five Police In Pork Round-up

Bluecoats Capture Pig Which Jumped From Truck and Invaded Printer's Establishment; Owner in Quandry

The spectacle of a greasy pig contest had nothing on the show staged yesterday afternoon by several bluecoats of Victoria's police force who undertook the capture of a pig which jumped off a truck outside police headquarters on Filgard Street.

The pig was one of seven.

Sgt. Arthur Bishop was walking into the station and immediately summoned a couple of reserve men to go out and get the porker. The truck driver, meanwhile, had driven on, not knowing that he had lost part of his cargo.

Constables Doug Bone and Art Rudge gave chase and managed to catch the pig in a field nearby after it had wandered into a printing establishment and been chased out.

CALL RESERVES
Police know all about traffic control and crime detection, but moving obstinate pigs is a little out of their line. However, they were willing to try anything once, but decided to call for reinforcements.

Sgt. Jim Florence, Constable Harry Mercer and Bill Ashton, the engineer, were called.

Rudge took the lead. He led the porker with a rope thick enough to tie up a barge. Bone and Ashton trailed alongside the porker. Mercer and Florence contributed advice.

But the porker got his dander up. He squealed and squealed to such an extent that people two blocks away heard the rumpus.

DISCOVERS LOSS
In the meantime the owner continued on his way to Colwood to deliver his pigs.

"I've got seven pigs here for you," he informed the purchaser when he reached Colwood.

"Oh, yeah," replied the purchaser, "I only see six."

The owner looked in amazement and retraced his route to the city. He arrived at headquarters just as the bobbies had their quarry safe in hand.

Destroyers Fire When Ships Menaced By Bombs From Airplanes Of Rebels

Madrid Government Informed by British and French It Must Keep Its Fleet Out of International Harbor at Tangier; Loyalist and Rebel Forces Line Up for Decisive Battle at City of Zaragoza; Government Claims Situation Improving for Its Forces Hour by Hour

Rebel Force at Cordoba Surrenders

Canadian Press from Havas
Madrid, July 23.—Six thousand loyalist troops and militiamen are at the gates of Zaragoza and rebel forces are in full flight after savage encounters in the Sierra Guadarrama, northwest of Madrid, the Minister of the Interior announced tonight.

Government planes renewed their bombardment of rebel positions in Zaragoza, about 150 miles northeast of Madrid. The belief was widespread a major battle for control of the city was imminent.

DISEASE MENACE IN BATTLE AREA

Associated Press
Gibraltar, July 23.—Refugees arriving in Gibraltar today said they feared a serious epidemic was imminent in the vicinity of La Linea.

More than 100 persons were killed there, many more wounded and thousands of cattle and other animals left to starve.

British Tanker Bombed by Rebels

Associated Press
Gibraltar, July 23.—British naval guns boomed off this famous rock today in a grim warning to reckless Spanish Fascist air rebels.

H.M.S. Wild Swan, a British destroyer, sent out a "warning" volley off Tarifa, Spain, in answer to air bombs which fell close to the warships' bows.

The destroyer Whitehall, at Casablanca, French Morocco, routed a rebel Spanish plane with gunfire after the aviator had bombarded the British steamship Gibel Dersa, carrying fuel oil to Spanish cruisers at Tangier.

Simultaneously, British naval authorities warned the rebel leaders they must cease their "deliberate and irresponsible bombing of the shipping straits" near the rock.

TO KEEP CLEAR
Britain and France joined in telling the leftist Spanish government to keep its fleet out of the international harbor at Tangier, on the Moroccan side of the narrow passage.

The aviators, presumably rebels, were stated to have dropped a number of bombs which exploded close to the Wild Swan's bows.

After delivering an answering fire, the 1,500-ton British destroyer returned to Gibraltar.

Previously the local authorities had warned the Spanish, whose artillery fire struck the rock yesterday, that the British did not intend to have such incidents repeated.

PLANES WARNED
The acting governor of Gibraltar protested to Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the rebellion, against rebel planes flying over Gibraltar after loyal commanders on Spanish warships had been given a warning.

The governor said the flying of airplanes over the fortress and its vicinity was in contravention of international treaties.

British authorities warned Spanish government warship commanders that the great guns of the Gibraltar fortress would go into action if more shells fell on the rock as they did yesterday.

PETTY OFFICER COMMANDS
A petty officer appeared, declaring he was the commander. Capt. Ripley insisted on seeing the flag officer and was conducted to the commander, who was under arrest.

Replying to the formal warning, the commander stated he was no longer responsible for the ship, and informed Ripley the petty officer was in charge.

Shortly afterwards the squadron steamed in the direction of Malaga.

FREEDOM OF STRAIT
Associated Press
London, July 23.—Great Britain, in a firm protest to Gen. Francisco Franco, the Spanish rebel leader, today warned Fascist insurgents against "deliberate and irresponsible bombing of the shipping straits" off Gibraltar.

Repetition of the incidents, the statement said, would lead to protective and retaliatory acts.

The British embassy in Spain was instructed to act with the French embassy in calling the Spanish government's attention to the "difficulties which may arise" if Tangier is used as a base of operations for the Spanish fleet.

PLANE DRIVEN OFF
Casablanca, French Morocco, July 23 (Associated Press).—The British destroyer Whitehall routed a rebel Spanish plane with gunfire today after the aviator had bombarded a British steamer bringing fuel oil to loyal Spanish cruisers in Tangier harbor.

The steamship bombed by rebels was identified in first reports as the Gibel Dersa of the Eland Line, but was believed to be that line's steamship Gibel Dersa.

It had arrived from Gibraltar, and anchored in the harbor, where it was bombarded at noon.

J. FARNSWORTH IS INDICTED

Former U.S. Naval Officer Formally Charged With Communicating Secrets to Japanese

Washington, July 23.—Assistant District Attorney Samuel Beach said today the District of Columbia federal grand jury had indicted John S. Farnsworth, former United States navy lieutenant-commander, on a charge of communicating confidential information concerning national defense to a Japanese agent.

Beach said the indictment was returned after two hours deliberation. In one count he is charged with delivering a confidential naval publication, "The Service of Information and Securities," to a Japanese agent. Another charge he attempted to deliver the publication.

Beach said Farnsworth probably would be brought before Justice Oscar Luttinger of the district federal court tomorrow to plead to the indictment.

If Farnsworth pleads not guilty, Beach said, he will be tried before a district federal court jury early in the October term. A maximum penalty of twenty years' imprisonment is provided for in the United States criminal code.

KAHO'S COMET MOVES AWAY

As Peltier's Comet Grows Brighter, Astronomers Speculate on Result if One of Such Speeding Bodies Should Strike the Earth

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Boston, July 23.—One of the two comets currently visible retreated into space today, but the question of what might happen should the earth collide with the head of one of these celestial wanderers claimed the interest of astronomers and amateur stargazers.

The Yerkes Observatory reported Kaho's Comet, discovered by an amateur Japanese astronomer July 15, had turned from the earth and sun and would approach no closer than 100,000,000 miles.

Peltier's Comet, however, continued its approach at the rate of twenty-five miles a second. Astronomers estimated it would attain its closest point, 16,000,000 miles, by August 5.

THREE BIG SCARS
The earth bears three scars to suggest what might happen if one of these wanderers collided with it.

One of them, spread over the coastal plains of North and South Carolina, between the Savannah River and Cape Lookout, is made up of 1,500 indentations that might have been made by stones forming the head of a comet.

The other tell-tale spots on earth are in Siberia and in Arizona, where giant meteors hit the earth.

The Siberian meteor struck in a forest in 1908. It is said to have been learned, not has it been discovered where it presumably lies buried under a marsh.

It laid down tall forest trees like grass for several miles around, except where ravines protected them. They appeared to have been scorched, but were not burned. The nearest human beings were within fifty miles. They heard an explosion, and one said its force almost blew him over his doorstep.

LARGEST ON RECORD
The Arizona spot is a crater more than a half mile in diameter. It is believed to record the largest meteor ever known to have struck the earth. Great quantities of pulverized rock and many fragments of meteoric iron have been picked up around the crater and attributed to the impact, but no meteor has been found.

Even if a comet approached the earth for a head-on collision some astronomers have calculated it never would make the impact. Gravitational forces, they figure, would break it up before it could strike. It might become nothing more than a meteor shower.

Hermits Found In Central Idaho

Man and Wife Have Not Been to Town Since 1926; Other Man Has Lived in Cabin Thirty-eight Years

Associated Press
Riggins, Idaho, July 23.—A Robinson Crusoe existence in the brooding forest wilderness of mountain-locked central Idaho has left no time for progress in the lives of three hermits.

The unusual group—two men and a woman—were "discovered" by a party of river explorers this month.

One man had lived in his canyon cabin since 1898.

The others, a man and wife, last saw a town ten years ago. They thought they were being "joshed" when told of the radio, streamlined cars and motion pictures that talk.

The strange hill folk were visited by eight Utah sportsmen, headed by Dr. Russell Frazier of Bingham, who navigated the Salmon River, famed "river of no return," from its source west of Cape Horn, Idaho, 250 miles down a swift and boulder-strewn current to the main stream near here.

They penetrated the heart of a region heretofore believed uninhabited.

"We came across the woman—don't recall her name—just as she was setting out to visit her nearest neighbor, twenty miles away," Dr. Frazier said. "She told us her husband had a small farm, and that they hadn't managed to get to town since 1926."

"Thirty miles downstream we spied a tiny cabin on top of a 2,000-foot cliff, with a ladder made of thongs and wooden pegs leading to it."

"There we found Earl R. Farrot, seventy-one, a prospector."

"I've been here thirty-eight years," he told us. "I snowshoed seventy miles to Edwardsburg once each winter to get tobacco, tea and salt. Everything else I need I make myself."

NINETEEN HELD AFTER SLAYING

Men Face Trial As Result of Strike Clash in Alabama

Associated Press
Talladega, Ala., July 23.—Nineteen men were arrested today by national guardsmen patrolling streets where a police officer was slain and seventeen persons wounded last night in the savage climax of a labor dispute at the Samsco cotton mills.

More than 150 troops with fixed bayonets restored order. The soldiers were directed to prevent crowds gathering.

Names of those arrested were not announced. No charges have been placed against them.

Col. John T. Moore, assistant adjutant-general, who ordered the troops out, said reports that friends of the slain deputy sheriff, John J. Bryant, would seek revenge for his death failed to materialize.

Bryant was killed in an exchange of about fifty shots between pickets and officers and others shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

NEW LOCARNO MEET PLANNED

Britain, France and Belgium Invite Italy and Germany to Five-power Discussion

Associated Press
London, July 23.—Great Britain, France and Belgium, meeting in a preliminary conference today, decided to invite Germany and Italy to participate in a five-power Locarno discussion "as soon as such a meeting can conveniently be held."

The later conference would be intended to negotiate a new agreement to take the place of the Rhine pact of Locarno, and resolve through collaboration of all concerned in the situation created by the German initiative of March 7 (rearmament of the Rhineland), a communiqué said.

It added: "Nothing could be more fatal" to the hopes of a general European settlement than division of Europe into opposing blocs.

Only the date of the Locarno discussion remained undetermined.

Attending today were British Foreign Secretary Eden; Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium; Baron Emile Carton de Wiart of Belgium; Belgian ambassador to Britain, and the French delegation, with the exception of Premier Leon Blum, arriving by plane later in the day.

Flier, Addressing German Pickets at Berlin, Points to Dangers

Associated Press
Berlin, July 23.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, speaking at an air club luncheon today, called on Nazi aviation leaders to realize the responsibility they bear for the deadly weapons they have created.

Aviators, he said, "unlike the builders of the first dugout canoe, have lived to see their harmless wings of fabric turned into carriers of destruction—even more dangerous than the guns of a battleship."

"We have lived to carry on our shoulders the responsibility for the results of our experiments, which in other fields have been passed on to future generations."

BIGGEST CHANGE
Aviation, the visitor declared, had created the most fundamental change ever made in war.

"It has abolished what we call defensive warfare," he asserted. "We can no longer protect our families with an army."

"Aviation has brought a revolutionary change to a world already staggering from changes."

"It is our responsibility to make sure that in so doing we do not destroy the very things we wish to protect."

NEWSPAPER GREETING
Col. Lindbergh shared the spotlight with the Olympics as the newspapers joined in a chorus of praise for the visiting flier and described his character as symbolizing the heroic qualities which Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is seeking to impress on German youth.

Hitler and his Air Minister, Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, were expected to leave southern Germany for Berlin to meet Col. Lindbergh before he leaves Germany.

Accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, the colonel arrived here yesterday after a flight from the Lympne air-drome in England by way of Cologne.

DARING PEAK CLIMBER FAILS

Word Comes of Carl Boyer's Attempt on Mount Waddington

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 23.—Mount Waddington, British Columbia's 13,260-foot mystery peak which claimed the life of Alex Dalgleish, Vancouver climber, in 1934, came near taking a second victim this year, according to word just received here.

Carl Boyer, a young mountaineer from Seattle, attempted a lone attack on the peak, which is now the objective of two large and well-equipped parties.

"Carl Boyer, Seattle, made a one-man attempt on Mount Waddington the last week in June," Don Munday, discoverer of Mount Waddington, said in a message received here yesterday from Knight Inlet. "Just how far he went does not seem to have been told except vaguely. It is thought he reached about 7,000 feet on the glacier and was turned back by three feet of fresh snow."

FOOD SHORTAGE
"He is reported to have carried a very scanty food supply—at the last he was frying water and flour to eat. He left his sleeping bag at our old base camp at Saffron Creek."

The Saffron Creek camp is being used this year as a base camp of the British Columbia Mountaineering Club and the Sierra Club party.

"After scrambling over the sheer bluffs of Duchman Head at the mouth of the Franklin River, he reached James R. Stanton's place up the Klamaklin River in an exhausted condition, with his clothes badly torn and his boots worn out," Munday said.

NOT ADDED TO PARTY
"He was taken to the Glendale cannery, where he met the Wiesner party and tried to get them to add him to their number. They refused."

"Boyer is said to have had a run in with a grizzly bear on Franklin River."

The Wiesner party is headed by Fritz H. Wiesner of New York and includes Elizabeth F. Woolsey of New Haven, Conn., William House, who joined Wiesner in Pittsburgh, and Allan Wilcox, who has had years of experience in the Alps and Rockies.

The other party attacking the peak is composed of members of the British Columbia Mountaineering Club and the Sierra Club of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Munday left here July 10 in an attempt to scale another peak in the Waddington district which has been tentatively named Mount Silverthorne. They are now waiting at the head of Knight Inlet for Henry S. Hall of Boston, secretary of the American Alpine Club, and a party which is now on an expedition to Mount Monarch, in the same district.

Two-day Sitting of British Commons

Noisy

During the all-night session Labor speakers assailed the government's new unemployment assistance regulations and continued to sit today without any interruption.

The sitting which began yesterday eventually was merged into today's. The long debate may continue until 11 o'clock tonight and could be prolonged further.

The government reached an agreement with the opposition to allow three days for debate on the new unemployment assistance regulations and that time will expire tonight. It was expected closure would then be applied if the debate was still proceeding.

LONG SPEECHES
Speeches last night were extremely long and serious in tone, with little color to the debate. Attendance was only moderate, dwindling to forty members.

But the opposition had an ample supply of speakers.

ONTARIO HAS LIGHT RAINS

Shows Wet Shallow Crust of Earth; Fruit Withering and Fodder Lost

Toronto, July 23.—Ontario farmers eagerly scanned overcast skies today and hoped for a continuation of the showers that fell over almost the entire province yesterday and last night but failed to penetrate the drought-baked ground more than an inch at most.

The rain definitely checked the forest fire menace that had threatened northern Ontario for three weeks, benefited small fruits and probably saved many fields from a total loss. It came after nearly a month of dry, hot weather. At Owen Sound it was accompanied by hail. Forecasts promised occasional thunder showers today and part of tomorrow in the lower lake and Georgian Bay region and occasional showers in northern Ontario.

GRAIN TOO FAR GONE
At Woodstock a steady rain which started at midnight and lasted for several hours brought hope to farmers in that district. Although the amount that fell could have little effect on the dried-out grain and corn crops, an overcast sky and high humidity today gave promise of more showers.

Intermittent showers at Belleville did not aid crops materially. A drenching rain is needed and there appears little prospect of it. The corn crop is beginning to sear. Cherries are withering and early varieties have been practically wiped out, but the rain will enable farmers to salvage some of the late varieties. Tomatoes will be aided by the showers, but pastures have been dried out and farmers are feeding cattle with fodder that was to be used next winter. Estimates place the crop loss at 50 per cent.

BRANTFORD DISTRICT
The longest drought on record in the Brantford district was broken with a continuous but not heavy fall. Official records show the fall was only .05 inches. At least three inches were needed.

WORK STARTED ON CATHEDRAL

Canadian Press
London, July 23.—The Archbishop of Canterbury yesterday laid the foundation stone of Guildford Cathedral, only the second Anglican cathedral to be built from its foundations since the Reformation.
Guildford Cathedral will stand on rising ground outside the town of Guildford, in Surrey. The site has been almost equally condemned and applauded.
The other cathedral built completely since the Reformation is Liverpool. It was started thirty years ago, but was designed on such immense lines that though building has proceeded steadily, it is still far from complete.

OFFICER SHOT
Associated Press
Tallahassee, Ala., July 23.—A deputy sheriff was killed and nearly a score of other persons shot down here yesterday evening in a sudden burst of gunfire near the Samoset cotton mills, where a labor disturbance has brought repeated violence for several weeks.
Chief Deputy Sheriff John J. Bryant of Talladega County was slain as he and other officers answered a call to the mill to quiet disorder.

WHEAT SURPLUS ROOSEVELT TO RAPIDLY SOLD BE SALUTED

By August 1 Canada's Total in Storage Expected to Be Down to 115,000,000 Bushels; Crop Outlook Uncertain

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 23.—Eight days from the end of the crop year, Canada's wheat storage holdings, a sizable worry last year, appear likely to divide by August 1 to about 115-000,000 bushels. Meanwhile drought, disease and insects raced farmers on the prairies as harvesting started in some districts.
The visible supply of wheat at July 18 was reported as 126,687,620 bushels, down more than 8,000,000 from the level of the previous week, and more than 63,000,000 bushels below the corresponding date a year before.
How much of the new crop could be offered for sale was not known.
There was no crop map to delimit the areas in which damage was most severe, but Bureau of Statistics observers reported many districts existed in which farmers would have no more than they would need for seed next year.

LOSSES AND RELIEF
One bright spot persisted. Higher price and reduction in storage holdings continued to reduce losses the government must suffer through operations of the Canadian Wheat Board.
It was considered likely, however, any money spent in that manner will be lost during the winter through increased relief costs in the drought-affected areas.

FATHER DIVINE MAY GO TO HOLLYWOOD

Associated Press
Los Angeles, July 23.—Upon Father Divine's "highest intuition" and the word of the Los Angeles Church Federation hinged today the question of whether the New York negro pastor will come to the Hollywood Bowl.
"I move by my highest intuition
—I will go if I want to and I won't go if I don't want to."
That, as relayed by Warner Hunt, employee of a publication which carries the Harlem leader's ecclesiastical messages, is Father Divine's answer to those who are opposed to his appearance in the open-air hillside theatre for religious meetings
July 31 and August 1.

ASKS EMPIRE NAVAL HELP

Sir Samuel Hoare Points Out Financial Burden of Navy to Britain

Canadian Press
London, July 23.—The financial burden which the navy lays on the shoulders of the British taxpayers was called to the attention of an informal conference of the Empire Parliamentary Association yesterday evening by Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty.
"The very deep interest which the other peoples of the empire have in this matter may suggest to them ways of sharing the burden," he said.
The solidarity of the British Commonwealth on the sea was the theme of Sir Samuel's address. He said this was once more demonstrated by the co-operation with the British fleet in the recent Mediterranean crisis of two Australian cruisers and one New Zealand cruiser. The Admiralty was grateful for this co-operation, he said, as a symbol of the unity of purpose inspiring the empire.

LOCAL DEFENCES
At least one direction in which other parts of the empire could help to lighten the Mother Country's naval burden, he suggested, was in the matter of local defence. In taking adequate measures in this regard they would be making a real contribution to the general security of the Commonwealth.
"Next year we shall have a welcome and appropriate opportunity of discussing at the Imperial Conference the manifold problems which our task entails," Sir Samuel continued.
"Centuries of experience," he said,
"confirm our conviction that a strong British empire is the greatest guarantee of the peace of the world."
The meeting was held in pursuance of last year's decision of the association to hold informal conference annually in London in order to maintain continuity between plenary sessions.

Trade Pact Is Extended Year

Canada and New Zealand Will Arrange New Agreement

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 23.—Orders-in-council passed in Ottawa and Wellington yesterday extend the life of the Canada-New Zealand trade agreement for another year, making the date of expiration September 30, 1937. It is expected that before then the two governments will have carried out discussions on a new agreement. Preliminary conversations to that end have already been held.

The Canadian order extending the agreement was adopted at yesterday's cabinet meeting and announced by Prime Minister King. There has been some discussion of sending a trade mission to New Zealand and Australia, but it is now considered likely all the necessary negotiations for new agreements with both countries will be carried out when the Imperial Conference takes place in London next spring.

Canada's trading agreement with New Zealand have already been subjected to revisions and extensions.
Under the terms of the original document it was made possible to effect these alterations and extensions by order-in-council with mutual agreement between the two governments.

NEWSPAPERS FACE CHARGE

Two London Journals in Contempt Action Following Attempted Attack on King

Canadian Press
London, July 23.—Contempt of court charges against two London newspapers for commenting on the activities, character and past career of the accused in last week's attempted attack on King Edward have been launched in the Court of King's Bench.

On the application of Sir Donald Somervell, Attorney-General, the court yesterday granted rules nisi for attachment for contempt of court against the editors and publishers of The Evening News and The Daily Express.

Sir Donald told the court, consisting of the Lord Chief Justice and two judges, that the action concerned comments in the newspapers on the proceedings against George Andrew McMahon, the man who allegedly pressed through the crowd on Constitution Hill last Thursday and levelled a revolver at the King. Mc-Mahon is charged under the Firearms Act with unlawfully having in his possession a loaded revolver with intent to endanger life and property.

The Attorney-General declared the motions for rules nisi rested on the ground newspaper comments might gravely prejudice the fair trial of the accused. He proceeded to quote lengthy passages purporting to describe McMahon's activities, character and past career.
The court, in granting the rules nisi, fixed next Wednesday for a hearing, when representatives of the newspapers will have to appear in court.

English law sets forth every man is innocent until he is proved guilty.
This ancient provision leaves none of its validity even though the person of the sovereign is involved, a London legal authority pointed out to the Canadian Press a few days ago in commenting on the position of English newspapers at the time of the episode on Constitution Hill.

Full Honors to Be Accorded President on Visit to Quebec

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 23.—Full honors of a foreign ruler will be accorded President Roosevelt on his visit July 31 to the City of Quebec.
The welcome will be attended by a salute from the ancient Citadel. The United States chief executive will have a military guard of honor with a band and a cavalry escort of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Quebec police, according to information given out here.

The presidential party will arrive at the railway station, enter automobiles and drive to Dufferin Terrace, where it will be welcomed by Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General; Prime Minister King and civil authorities.
The reception on the terrace will be the only public function. The President will attend. A luncheon given by the Governor-General will be private, as will a subsequent drive on which the visiting party will be shown places of historic interest.

CUTTEN LEFT $350,000 ESTATE

Will Shows Great Chicago Grain Speculator's Millions Dwindled

Associated Press
Chicago, July 23.—The millions the late Arthur W. Cutten, native of Guelph, Ont., was credited with making on grain and security exchanges were disclosed as having dwindled to approximately $350,000 when his will was filed for probate yesterday.

The will, one page in length, leaves the entire estate to the speculator's widow, Mrs. Maude Broomer Cutten.
Attorney Dwight Green said that while no inventory of Cutten's holdings had yet been made, he was certain the estate would not exceed $350,000 in value.

District Attorney Igoe announced the United States government would file liens aggregating more than $600,000 against the estate for income taxes alleged to be due for 1929, 1930 and 1933.

JAIL WRITER

David Lamson, Cleared of Wife Murder in California, to Wed Again

Associated Press
Los Angeles, July 23.—David Lawson, who was tried four times on charges he murdered his wife and once was sentenced to die on the gallows, is going to marry again.
Lawson, former Stanford University press executive, and Ruth Rankin, magazine writer, appeared at the marriage license bureau late yesterday and filed notice of intention to marry.

Lawson said he would call for the marriage license next Monday. The time and place of the wedding are indefinite.

After he was freed last April from the Santa Clara County jail, Lawson came to Hollywood and collaborated on the film "We Are About to Die," based on his experiences.

TO REGULATE BUS TRAFFIC

Ottawa, July 23.—Initiation of uniform laws throughout the Dominion for regulation of highway bus and truck traffic will be taken up at a meeting of Dominion and Provincial Government representatives later this summer, it was learned yesterday.

It is not anticipated, however, any new laws dealing with this problem will be established until next year's sessions of provincial legislatures and the Dominion Parliament.

NEW ORGANIST FOR ST. PAUL'S

London, July 23.—John Dykes
Bower, organist and choirmaster of Durham Cathedral, yesterday was appointed organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. This ranks with the post at Westminster Abbey as the most notable position of its kind in the world.

Mr. Bower succeeds Dr. Stanley Marchant, appointed principal of the Royal Academy of Music. It is unusual for an organist of St. Paul's to take another position. Dr. Marchant was given a title never previously conferred—organist emeritus.

yesterday. The vacancy was created

Ottawa, July 23.—In an interview yesterday, Premier King said he would be in Geneva for the League of Na-

21, but it would be "exceedingly dif-visiting Vancouver during that city's fiftieth anniversary celebration.

No decision has been reached on will accompany the Prime Minister to Geneva. It has been Mr. King's cushe will be accompanied by several of the ministers.

AMNESTY FOR MANY AUSTRIANS

Canadian Press from Havas
Vienna, July 23.—A general amnesty affecting 10,000 political prisoners throughout Austria has been proclaimed by President Wilhelm Mik-

The decree was the first major step taken as a result of the recently-signed Austro-German agreement.

Another amnesty for political delinquents who come under the jurisdiction of police and administrative courts will be issued later this month.

Only about 200 political prisoners failed to benefit from the amnesty decreed yesterday evening.

The total of 10,000 includes those free on bail or awaiting trial.

LIBRARY IN MOVIE DEBUT

Building Becomes "Hamilton Bank Ltd." for New Central Films Picture

People walking up Yates rubbed their eyes when they Street yesterday afternoon came to the public library. Inscribed in neat silver letters on its glass doors were the words "Hamilton Bank Ltd." The library was making its screen debut in the new Central Films picture, "Why Let 'Em Live."

Standing outside the Dominion Hotel in a provincial police sergeant's uniform and watching cameras being rolled on its dolly up and down in front of the city's newest bank, Lyle Talbot, leading man of the picture, pointed out a strange coincidence. Next door to the library building is the Hollywood Coffee Shop, and it was well in camera range. Central Films is wondering just how to explain that to the British quota board.

The company had a busy day on locations in various city streets yesterday afternoon, taking advantage of the half-holiday so as not to dislocate traffic too much. Large crowds gathered at each place to watch the proceedings.

FINE SETS BUILT
Meanwhile, the last touches were being put to the finest collection of sets yet built by the company at the Willow studio.

Designed by Eric Clarkson, local architect, the sets are on a larger scale and more intricately decorated than any previous ones.

The first thing to strike the visitor who manages to get past the electrically-locked door of the studio is a full-sized pawnbroker's shop, with the name "J. J. MacTavish," inscribed in black letters above the door. The store is complete both inside and out, the company having searched in vain for a pawn shop that looks like one in Victoria.

The outside of the shop is in cream stucco, with bow windows jutting out above the front. Inside there is the usual gridded desk and a collection of the various things which are from time to time taken to "pawn."

Among the finest of the sets erected for this picture are the living-room of a New York apartment and a lunch counter. Both are decorated in modernistic style with wrought iron grilles on windows and on the small balcony which goes into the apartment room.

Other sets now completed include a bar, with authentic swing doors, a kitchen, the police inspector's office, with Venetian blinds on the windows, a hospital and various other house and apartment rooms.

LARGEST PRODUCTION
The picture, in which Wendie Barrie will take the feminine lead, will be the largest production of the company so far, and with perfect weather conditions at present prevailing, Kenneth J. Bishop, producer, is confident it will be finished well within the sixteen-day schedule.

Mr. Bishop, interviewed yesterday, paid tribute to the co-operation of Commissioner J. H. MacKinnon and members of the Provincial Police and of Attorney-General Gordon

McG. Sloan, who are taking an active interest in the production. Plans for shooting many sequences double, first in provincial police and then in a state trooper uniform, have been abandoned, and the picture will appear on the screen only in a provincial police version.

AMNIENS

During their week-end in France hundreds of Canadian pilgrims now on their way to the unveiling next Sunday of the Vimy Ridge Memorial will embrace the opportunity to revisit the scenes of Canada's "Hundred Days"—those areas south of the River Somme where the first smashing counter-attack of the Allied armys was delivered in August, 1918. The "jumping-off" position of this peace-time army is Amiens, in whose Cathedral is a bronze plaque commemorating Canadian accomplishments eighteen years ago.

Should the pilgrims proceed to Amiens by bus, they will be reproducing "en caracete" the arrival of their fellows in the first week of August, 1918, for it was there that the Canadian Corps moved from the neighborhood of Arras to its great surprise offensive at Amiens.

St. Fusien, a small village six miles south of the city, was the disembarkation point. From there the Canadians spread throughout the woods in the vicinity of Boves, a pre-arranged community on the Arras River. Secreting themselves in the bush close to the front-line positions, the Canadians lay concealed until, on August 8, they swept forward to a triumphant attack.

Such villages as Gentelles, Domart, Hangard and Demuin rise in their minds, for all are identified with that "black day of the German Army," as a great German general termed his crushing defeat. These are clustered within a radius of ten miles east of Amiens.

Marcelcave on the ridge southeast of Villers Bretonneux, Aubercourt and Ignycourt, where the Canadian Cavalry Brigade crossed the sluggish Luce River to pursue the enemy; Beaumont, which resisted stubbornly the attack of the Seventh Brigade; Cayeux, a beauty spot in a district of surpassing beauty, all conjure up memories of heroic effort. The pilgrims will re-acquaint themselves with Roisieres, Vrely, Beaufort, Rouvroy and Le Quesnel. And at Le Quesnel stands the modest Canadian memorial to mark a great achievement.

ARMENTIERES
Canadians have a sentimental attachment for Armentieres, and it is not uncertain that many of the pilgrims, now nearing the coast of France en route to the unveiling of the Vimy Ridge Memorial on Sunday, will include "Armentieres" in their itinerary. Was it not a Canadian, Lieut. Giff Rice, who immortalized the chaste mademoiselle of that place "who hasn't been kissed for forty years?"

It was in the Armentieres neighborhood that the Canadians received their initiation into trench warfare back in February, 1915. Within two weeks from their arrival at St. Naire, at the mouth of the River Loire, the Canadians marched forward to the Armentieres sector, sent small parties from each unit to survey the trenches and acquaint themselves with conditions generally.

On March 1 actual relief of front line units took place and, coincidentally enough, the first Canadian battalions to "go into the line" were the First (Western Ontario) and the Second (Eastern Ontario). They relieved the South Staffordshires and the Royal Warwicks, respectively, at Bois Gomer.

To many Canadians, Armentieres is synonymous with the "Pigeries," which were just what the word implies—on a large scale. However, of the billets in the reserve area, the Pigeries were by no means the least comfortable.

Not far from Armentieres, toward the rear, was Baillieu. The Canadians marched through Baillieu on their way to the Ypres salient and the poison gas attack of April, 1915. And here the shattered remnant of the division was later reinforced and refitted.

Baillieu—Dranoutre—Neuve Eglise Plug Street, these all evoke warm memories within the heart of the ex-service men. In Baillieu the Bishop of London in 1915 made the great discovery during an address to the Canadians, that, with all their cheering and laughter, their riot and noise, the soldiers of twenty-one years ago were nothing more than boys grown up.

The human jaw generates an electric current in eating.

Six miles to the northwest of those marshes where the northern shoulder of Vimy Ridge descends into Souchez River is that inconspicuous mound known during the war as Hill 70. In all likelihood the Canadian pilgrims now on their way to the battlefields and cemeteries of Europe will be unable to distinguish this low ridge from the surrounding country, and not until they traverse it and are told something of its story will they realize that here in August, 1917, the Canadian Corps fought one of the most brilliant actions of the war.

Hill 70 stands high in Canadian annals. It was the first operation executed by the Corps under the command of General Sir Arthur Currie, and German official reports have it that for the number of troops employed it was one of the most costly engagements the enemy had ever fought. In the fighting for the hill and in subsequent actions in its vicinity six Canadians won the Victoria Cross. They were Major O. M. Learmonth, Second (Eastern Ontario) Battalion; Pte. M. J. O'Rourke, Seventh (British Columbia) Battalion; Pte. Harry Brown, Tenth (Alberta) Battalion; Co. Sgt. Major R. Hanna, twenty-ninth (British Columbia) Battalion; Pte. Philip Xonowal, Forty-seventh (Western Ontario) Battalion, and Sergt. Fred Hobson, twentieth (Central Ontario) Battalion.

In no cases were the exacting requirements for the award more amply fulfilled. Whether one envisions Learmonth standing, like Ajax derring the lightning, on the parapet of his trench, catching enemy bombs and throwing them back into the advancing German lines, or the streams of liquid fire played around him, or stout-hearted Hobson, a veteran of the South African war, laying about him like some paladin of old, the spirit of sacrifice and the promptings of courageous hearts were present.

O'Rourke laboring without cease under intense fire to ease the sufferings of his comrades, Brown weaving through the barrage with messages of highest portent—all form a picture which, with its background the horrors of war, is relieved by the nobility and the bravery of those heroes whose thoughts transcended mere thought of self.

Colwood

Efforts of the members of the girls' branch of St. John's W.A. were rewarded Monday afternoon when they realized the sum of $30 at their summer sale of work. The sale was opened by Rev. Canon Terry. The conveners were: Marguerite Hinkman, Ethel Brown, Mildred Peatt, Kathleen Goodall and Olive Cockerton.

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. J. Hopwood of Blubber Bay and former residents of Colwood, the members of the Colwood Hall committee entertained Saturday evening at an old-time Scottish dance in Colwood Hall. The invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. Hopwood, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wishart, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wishart, Mr. and Mrs. Rossmith, Mr. and Mrs. T. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Piercy, Mr. and Mrs. A. Godfrey, Mesdames H. Parker, Brian, Burnett, W. Piercy and Slater; Misses Adria Murray and Slater; Messrs. E. Peatt, T. Brien, Robert Wishart, George Wishart, Frank Spencer and James Burnett.

Piles Go Quickly

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription

Many suffers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles. The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief after using just one bottle.

MacFarlane or Vancouver Drug Stores or any druggist can supply you.

Sanctions Off, Italy Pays Debt With Fruit

Canadian Press
London, July 23.—Hundreds of tons of Italian plums and peaches are coming into the British market. They are the first fruits of the lifting of League of Nations sanctions from Italy.

Italian growers, however, do not get the money. Under an order of the treasury, proceeds from the sales of imported Italian fruit are paid into the Bank of England for the account of the Anglo-Italian clearing office. There they help to liquidate some of the heavy debts owing to British traders by Italy.

Livestock Areas To Be Given Aid

Federal Government Considers How to Assist in Prairie Drought Districts

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 23.—The Dominion Government is giving serious consideration to the plight of western livestock farmers arising from the widespread drought conditions, but will not favor any policy of wholesale destruction of animals in order to relieve the situation.

Prime Minister King said yesterday evening the cabinet had devoted considerable time at sessions to reports from the prairies, but the course of action to be adopted would wait further discussions with the provincial authorities.

Finance Minister Charles Coughlin of Alberta is in Ottawa, and laid the problem before Hon. J. C. Elliott, Acting Minister of Agriculture, and other government officials. He said yesterday it might be necessary to evacuate some 500,000 head of cattle from the affected areas in Alberta alone.

PLANT RUINED BY EXPLOSION

Woman Killed and Nine Persons Injured in Chicago

Associated Press
Chicago, July 23.—An explosion and fire levelled the National Fur Dressing and Dyeing Company's plant yesterday, killing one woman, injuring nine other employees and reducing the building to a mass of brick, girders and timbers.

Salvage workers toiled over the still-hot ruins this morning, but were satisfied all occupants of the plant were accounted for.

Six employees of the firm, which processed raw pelts for the fur market, were in a hospital today with serious burns. Two firemen and a passerby were also injured, but less seriously.

ALBERTA M.P.P. IN RECALL CHALLENGE

Canadian Press
Edmonton, July 23.—S. A. G. Barnes, Social Credit member of the Alberta Legislature for Edmonton, who, it was announced yesterday, had been suspended from the party, now suggests the Alberta Government undertake to oust him from the assembly.

Mr. Barnes said he was "eager" for the government to institute recall proceedings against him, under the Legislative Assembly Recall Act, passed at the last session of the assembly. "Let them test the Recall Act," he said.

Under the terms of the act, recall proceedings may be taken if two-thirds of the people on the electoral list sign a petition authorizing such action.

YOUR CHILDREN

HOME IS IDEAL FOR CHILD TO LEARN IDEALS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I believe the time has come to "fix" children's ideals for them; to tell them in not-too-uncertain terms what is worth while and what isn't. Parents may differ in what they think worth-while, but in the main they will agree. Anyway, it is the best that can be done.

For instance, it used to be that children were told it was necessary to take a bath on Saturday night, save their best shoes and hats for Sunday school (and Sunday school it had to be), to read Pilgrim's Progress, Black Beauty and Louisa Alcott, to save each penny, eat their crusts, turn the other cheek and help with the dishes.

NO HALF-WAY ISSUES

Life was a square divided and subdivided into little squares, each of which bore a motto. "Do this," or "Don't do that." Children grew up as most children do and some began to think for themselves. What if I don't do all the things the old folks taught me? I guess I have to live my own life. This could not be helped.

A percentage in time became prodigal; some forgot to be meek; some followed the bright lights and some found the gutter. But many remained loyal. As for the others they knew what was right and often returned to it. Of such stuff is conscience made. The famous prodigal returned, partly because he was hungry, but mostly because he knew his Dad was right. Saved, by his early taught ethics.

Today's days, jammed so full of what-not and change, seem to be robbing children of their walls. I don't mean that parents are negligent, but they themselves are victims of conditions. One day an orator convinces them that short of killing there is no sin. Another day they are told that beauty of life consists chiefly in enlarging talent—at all cost. Another that the "regimented" life is stifling. There are as many different points of view as there are sunbeams. It is a fact that many parents are muddling through this chaos of versatile brains and do not know what to do about the children, so they do not do anything at all. There are plenty of Toppies today.

I think the old way was a good way, full of mistakes though it was. It was a bit pinching here and full of holes there, but in the main, all children learned their code. And certainly that is better than none at all.

Neuresthenes are usually a result of being tossed between conflicts. Very few people ever turned neuresthenic in the old days when farm samplers said this was right and that was wrong. People had their laws of life fixed for them as children, and lived those laws pretty well. Maybe they became narrow, or crabbed in certain cases, but they did not go crazy.

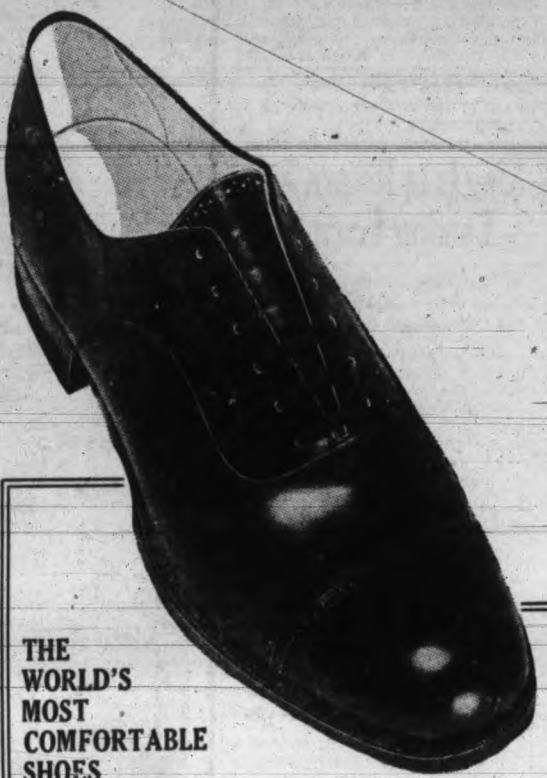

CHILDREN NEED GUIDING

Children need things to tie to. Daily custom and daily precept should come back into style, changed to suit the present, but that is all. In short, they NEED to be told. They need to have some things engraved deep on their minds that will always be there; simple things, but immutable. Things to grow up with and come back to, even though they do go up a valley now and then on their own.

Some will say it can't be wise, because it accents the "guilt" complex when anything goes wrong. This is its weak place. But I figure that one may as well be unsettled over "guilt" as over "conflicts." The eternal choosing between standards that are no standards at all. We have become so vague about standards. I think we MUST give the child very clear-cut ideals to live on.

So Much for Love

By NARD JONES

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY
HELENA DERRICK, just head of the women's sports department at Helix's store, goes on a week-end party at Crest Mountain Lodge. There she meets handsome PETER HENDERSON. It is a case of love at first sight between them. Peter asks Helena to marry him and the ceremony takes place.

Later, the crowd goes swimming. Peter makes a reckless dive and is seriously injured. Lying between life and death, Peter asks Helena to summon his lawyer, JOHN COURTNEY.

Courtney arrives and a short time later Peter dies.

Helena is informed she is sole heir to a large fortune, including the Henderson department store. She meets beautiful LEAH FRAZIER, who had expected to marry Peter, and realizes Leah is an enemy. Peter's uncle, ROGER BARNES, manager of the store, is also hostile.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

It was indeed a closely-knit town, neither large nor small, into which John Courtney brought Helena—and to her alarm she discovered that the Henderson Department Store was easily the most impressive structure there. She was to learn that it was impressive not simply in size. True, it was not as large as Helix's, where Helena had worked, but it was easily the biggest organization of its kind in its half of the state. And to the town, as well as to the surrounding farm families, it was a centre of life. Women met their friends at Henderson's, had tea or lunch there. The store was more than just a place where they could buy almost anything they wanted.

"You can see from what I've said," Helena wrote her mother, "that I've had my hands full of things. I don't know yet just what to do. I thought of having you here with me, but the truth is I don't know whether I'll stay. I'm not living in the Henderson house. It's too big, and it frightens me. And I never could feel I had any business there. So I've taken a little apartment and I've hardly been out of it the last week. But today John Courtney telephoned and said he was coming over. I have to meet Peter's uncle, and a man from the bank."

She tried to keep from this letter to her mother the feeling of bewilderment, the frightened knowledge that beyond her little apartment the town was waiting to see her, appraise her, criticize her. Helena did not confess that she had more than once considered escaping to the station and taking the first train—any train, so long as it was bound away from the town and the lowering Henderson Department Store.

She had just sealed and stamped this letter when the bell of her apartment sounded. It must be Courtney. Helena thought with a sigh. Aloud, she said, "Come in, please."

Turning from the little writing desk she confronted, not John Courtney, but Leah Frazier. The girl wore a smart tweed suit and a jaunty hat which Helena instinctively realized had come from Helix's.

"Good morning, Miss Frazier," Helena faltered. "I'm awfully glad you called."

"This," answered Leah Frazier, "isn't precisely a call, Miss Derrick. She smiled coldly. 'It is Helena Derrick, isn't it? I mean, you wouldn't quite call yourself Mrs. Peter Henderson, would you?'"

Helena ignored the thrust. "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you, no. I can state my business very briefly. I understand that you are going to meet Barnes today?"

"Yes, I am."

"Then, you know, I can state my business very briefly. I understand that you are going to meet Barnes today?"

"Yes, I am."

"Roger Barnes managed the store for Peter, you know. I suppose you plan to turn everything over to him?"

Helena fingered the letter she had just written. "I'm not prepared just now to discuss my plans."

Leah Frazier's eyes glittered with sudden anger. She kept her voice level with an obvious effort. "Perhaps, however, you'll consider my advice."

"Perhaps."

"My advice is that you relinquish all claim to Peter's estate. No doubt Mr. Barnes will be willing to make some compensation—say, a sum that would be reasonable under the circumstances."

"Apparently you've discussed the matter with him?"

"And why not? My people were among the founders of this town. I was a friend of Peter's and of his family. Obviously, you have neither the background nor education to even understand the management of the store."

Helena smiled. "Perhaps not the background, if that's necessary. But I've worked in stores for quite a while. I think that might be a very good education for this job. With the assistance of Mr. Courtney, and perhaps of someone from the bank—even from Mr. Barnes, if he wishes to help—I might get along."

"You couldn't!" Leah returned without control. "Everyone knows you tricked Peter into marriage—just so you might fall into this. I suppose you thought when he had the accident, I suppose—"

"That's enough, Miss Frazier!" Helena cried, facing her. "If everyone knows a story like that it's only because you've spread it. Now will you please leave?"

The Frazier girl colored, held fast to her composure. "Yes, gladly. But in fairness, I'll warn you. If you attempt to stay in this town you'll wreck Peter's store in six months. I'll help you to do it."

"You'll help?" said Helena, not understanding.

Leah Frazier smiled. "Yes. And so will all my friends. We'll boycott Henderson's Department Store, and we have accounts there now running into plenty of money. You don't know how fast a thing like that can spread in a town such as this."

Helena gazed at her in sudden contempt. "You—you do a thing like that just to spite me? You'd try to smash Peter's store and hurt the town, just to—"

"Oh, it would come back," interrupted the Frazier girl. "After we got rid of you." She turned and left the apartment, slamming the door insistently.

When Courtney arrived he found Helena wrapped in a cold rage that had not subsided from the moment Leah Frazier had gone.

"The Frazier girl was just here," Helena told him. "She wants me to turn the store over to her! She'll boycott it. The lawyer pursued his lips. 'I was afraid of something like that. And there's another hurdle, too. I've discovered Barnes has been talking to the employees. He's warned them that if you take over you'll mismanage the place, and lose their jobs for them. If he fails in that stunt, he's going to contest the will on the grounds that Peter was temporarily incompetent when he made you his sole heir.'"

"I don't care about that," Helena whirled upon him. They can all have the store if they want it. But I don't like the idea of being run out of town. Won't anybody be with us?"

"It's hard to say. I think we can count on one person, and he's important to us. That's John Lassiter."

"Who's John Lassiter?"

"He's old Aaron Lassiter's son. Aaron's president of the biggest bank here—the one we do business with—but he's turned things over to John mostly."

"Why? Why should he be with us?"

Courtney shook his head. "I don't know, but he is. He told me he thought you ought to have every consideration. And I don't think he approves of the wide credit Barnes allows in the store. Think it's bad business now."

Helena looked at the attorney. "I wonder," she said slowly, "who the people are who are getting long-time credit at the store? Maybe it's our friends who would boycott. If that's true, we can stand that kind of a boycott."

She went into the next room, reappeared with a hat and light summer coat. "Are you ready to see Roger Barnes?"

Courtney broke into a wide grin. "You know, I believe you like a good fight. I'd never have dreamed that when I first met you. For the first time, you're showing interest in the Henderson Department Store."

"I've had experience in a store bigger than this one," Helena told him. "And I've a good notion to run it—and make them like it." She smiled. "With your help, of course."

Courtney nodded. "You'll have it. And I think you're right, Helena. I knew the president of one of the biggest chain dry goods stores in the country, and when he wanted to put his sons in charge of the business he put 'em behind the counter first."

He lowered his voice confidentially. "Frankly, I've never liked the idea of Barnes running the place. I think he's lost money for Peter. That is, the store's been paying, but not what it should. Of course, Peter never worried much about that."

Within twenty minutes they were in Roger Barnes' office on the mezzanine floor of the store. Barnes was a cadaverous-looking man in his early fifties, startlingly unlike his late nephew. He made no secret of his resentment toward Helena. Plainly he intended to frighten her out of the business if he could.

They had talked only a few moments when John Lassiter arrived. The banker's son was a pleasant, well-set-up young man, whose ready smile did not conceal the fact that he knew his way about. After expressing sympathy for Helena, he was all business, but she could sense the friendliness Courtney promised.

"I've been showing—ah—Mrs. Henderson the financial statement," Roger Barnes said. "But, of course, I doubt that it means very much to her."

"We used to draw up financial statements as part of our high school course," she turned to Lassiter. "I may be wrong, but it seems to me that, in comparison with the total annual volume, we carry a tremendous amount on the books. There's a notation here that says some are ninety-day accounts. Several of the larger charge accounts run six months or a year. Isn't that rather unusual?"

Roger Barnes spluttered. "Those are people whose good will we need."

"Just so that I can get some idea."

Helena turned back to Barnes. "Is Miss Frazier one of those?"

And if she is, would you call her representative of this class of trade?"

Fete Gives Stimulus To Work For League

Bishop Remington Commends League of Nations, in Opening Garden Party at Mrs. J. W. Benning's; Big Crowd Enjoys Many Attractions

That a large group of intellectuals in the United States is strongly sympathetic to the League of Nations and that on them, as on its supporters elsewhere, devolves the task of counteracting the present tendency to swing away from it, was one of the interesting remarks passed by Rt. Rev. W. P. Remington, Bishop of Eastern Oregon, in opening the League of Nations Society's garden party yesterday afternoon.

Held in the charming grounds at the home of Mrs. J. W. Benning, Rockland Avenue, the affair attracted a large number of guests, and a considerable audience gathered at the front of the house for the formal opening. Introduced by Dean Quinlan, president of the local society, Bishop Remington spoke with regret of the tendency of the world, in these days of supermen, to hark back to the primitive in times of war, as was evidenced in Ethiopia recently.

WILL TO PEACE
While wars were not made by the will of the people, but had their birth in trade struggles long before the first gun was fired, yet the speaker believed that wars could be prevented by the will of the people. The League of Nations represented an effort to maintain a democratic control of the world, and as such deserved the support of thinking people. Now, when events of the past year had set a large measure of public opinion against it, it was time for those who believed in its principles to demonstrate that faith, declared the bishop.

LOVELY SETTING
The gardens made an ideal setting for the many attractions arranged under the able direction of Mrs. Alan Campbell, general convenor, and her committee including Miss Lottie Bowron, Messrs. John Gough and A. S. Averill. Piper Pollock, wearing the kilt, played stirring music during the afternoon.

Numerous games were arranged. Mrs. Stanley Holmes and Mrs. Charles Watson had charge of a bowling alley; the Misses Peggy Macdonald and Betty Potter, darts; Miss Monica Robbins, "driving for pennies"; Mrs. Saxton-White, clock golf; Misses Ena Addison and Dulcie Hamlet, "five-and-ten-cent store." The Kinsmen Club operated a profitable "chuck-a-luck" game, in charge of Archie Smith, Herbert Sabiston, Alfred Food and Edwin Sanders. Mrs. J. G. Hazelwood had charge of bagatelle. Winners of the clock golf were as follows: Ladies, Mrs. Mackenzie-Grieve; men, Bishop Remington and J. Hazelwood.

DAINTY TEA
Tea was served on the upper terrace by the executive of the Local Council of Women. Mrs. J. W. Gibson, the convenor, was assisted by Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, Mrs. A. C. Ross, Mrs. D. W. Morry, Mrs. J. L. White and Dr. Olga Jardine, and the Misses Mary Gibbs, Molly Holden, Margaret Pringle, Virginia Ross, Daphne Williams, Judith Monk and Elsie Clark. Miss Foxall had charge of the tea tickets.

In "Gypsyland," convened by Mrs. Bertha Parsons and Miss Georgina Herd, several seers were kept busy including Medames Shrimpton, Johnson, C. A. Birkett and Song-Hast.

Ice cream was dispensed by Mrs. Moffatt, Miss Shankey and Mr. Jack Campbell; candy was sold by Mrs. W. K. Willis and Mrs. R. D. McCaw, assisted by Mrs. J. O. Johnson and Mrs. A. H. Thomson. A box of chocolates was won by Mrs. Marshall, of 1510 Monterey Avenue.

Flowers found a ready sale at the stall in charge of the Misses Phyllis Parkes, Gwen Wright, Ursula Hills, Phyllis Dorfler and Dorothy Hills; a novelty stall was in charge of Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, Mrs. W. G. Gamble, Mrs. W. F. Pinfold, Mrs. J. C. F. Hyndman and Miss Phyllis McIntosh, while literature concerning the League was in charge of Miss Idele Wilson, Mrs. K. McAllister and Miss Margaret Black.

PROGRAMME GIVEN
Adding much to the pleasure of the afternoon was the programme arranged by Mrs. S. J. Willis and given on the lower terrace, children from Mrs. Dorothy Wilson's and Miss Mona Jewell's schools of dancing contributing charming solo and ensemble numbers in costume, and Heber Nasmyth, of Fullman College, Washington delighting everyone with his magnificent singing of "Care Salve" and "The Pilgrim." Mrs. Nasmyth played the accompaniment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Finlison and Mrs. J. Colclough had charge of the general gate receipts.

London Social Season At An End

Royal Reception Yesterday Last Big Function

Associated Press
London, July 23.—The London social season moved to a close last night with the second garden reception of debutantes by the King.

Seated under a silken canopy in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, His Majesty received a second group of smartly-gowned women.

Soon society leaders will leave for the country residences and Mayfair will lapse into its usual August siesta.

Many debutantes will visit the fashionable Goodwood race meeting starting next Tuesday on the Sussex course of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. After that society is to centre its activities on the Isle of Wight for Cowes week, opening August 3.

For many years a smart rendezvous during the yacht races, Cowes is expected to remain a fashionable resort despite the absence of some members of the Royal family.

King Edward is not expected to attend nor is Queen Mary.

After Cowes, debutantes and their families will split into family groups for visits to fashionable continental spas or their country residences.

Grouse shooting has been booked for September in the Scottish highlands.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRD

MANY COOL BATHS HELP BABY TO ENJOY HOT WEATHER

Just as adults cannot get enough baths in hot weather so the baby and small children profit by frequent dips and sponge baths. Baths are not for cleanliness alone, but act as stimulants to the skin in its effort to throw off the bodily poisons. Water, soap and rubbing keep the skin active and capable of accomplishing its secretory task.

Baby needs his one warm bath daily and in addition several sponge baths. For the sponge bath use a soft, wash cloth; a pan of cool, not cold water, and rub him over swiftly patting him dry.

SODA OR STARCH IN WATER
If there is any eruption caused by heat, add a tablespoon of soda or laundry starch to the water and pat it on and let it dry. It will be soothing to the skin and will cool it by evaporation.

Just before bedtime repeat the bath again and put baby into a happy state, with cool, fresh skin, which influences swift, restful slumber.

Older children can take several daily baths in a regular tub, or more festively, in a tub of water set out under the trees. At night they may don bathing suits, or underwear, and dash about screaming under the icy sprinkle from the garden hose.

AVOID CHILLING
If the child is spending a vacation period at lake or ocean, it is well to consider the number of times a day in which he goes into the water and see that these do not exceed the limits of good sense.

Chilling the skin in large bodies of water is far different than frequent, rapid sponge baths and the cold-blooded child, with lean, long body, can become actually ill from too long exposure to very cold water. Other than this, frequent baths keep children cool, good-tempered and clean, triple conveniences to parents.

At this time of the year we hope the leaflet, "Ways to Keep Children Cool," may offer some helpful suggestions to hot, weary parents. A self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope should be sent with each letter asking for this leaflet by title. Address Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Alberta University Adds to Faculty

Canadian Press
Edmonton, July 23.—Nineteen appointments to the staff of the University of Alberta were announced yesterday by the Board of Governors. The presidency being vacated by Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal-elect of Queen's University, Kingston, will be filled by an appointee of the provincial government.

The appointments include Agnes J. McLeod of Vancouver to the directorship of a course of nursing as from July 1, 1937, and J. Van Wilby of Nanaimo, to be zoology assistant.

Miss Taylor models an equally frothy creation of Swiss organdie.

New York Giants Climb Into Third Place In National League

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

FORD FRICK's ban against hand-shaking ball players has stirred Johnny Evers, the middle man of the famous double-play combination, to write his own memoirs of the rip-roaring days of the diamond when a game was a tea party unless somebody got punched in the nose. Writing in the current issue of a popular magazine Evers recalls the bloody tussles between rival players, often between entire teams, that transpired at the ball parks during his heyday. The fans, too, were always ready to throw their fists or pop bottles if the bout was unnecessarily mild.

Evers relates one of the brawling incidents when his Boston team was making its sensational jump from last to first place. During a game at Chicago Heinie Zimmerman tried to knock the ball from Johnny's hand as he slid into the bag.

"I retaliated," says Johnny, "by rubbing the ball with much vigor over Heinie's features from the chin to the forehead and back again. Heinie jumped to his feet and wound up to take a punch at me, but little Rabbit Maranville, who was so short he had to jump to register, socked Heinie on the chin and knocked him down."

After the riot was quelled Maranville, Evers and Zimmerman were ejected from the game, but on their way to the clubhouse they fell to fighting again.

"Heinie refused to believe it was little Maranville who had hit him and had to be smacked again to be convinced," Johnny reports.

Those were the days, says Johnny Evers, when "every ball game was a battle and a team could lift itself up by its own bootstraps through the fighting fury it generated."

Sonny Buxton, Victoria's well-known heavyweight scrapper, is now under the management of Ted Moore, who was once rated the world's uncrowned middleweight champion. Moore, who has been pretty well down on his luck since he suffered severe financial losses, purchased Buxton's contract. The veteran figures he has really got something in the finely set Victoria Boy. Moore, who fought Harry Greb in 1924 for the world middleweight championship on a card which also featured such fighters as Gene Tunney and the late Young Stribling, states Buxton has improved 100 per cent after one month's instructions.

Ever hear of a triple play in softball in which the catcher made all the putouts?

Such a feat occurred in the first inning of a game in Monroe, Michigan, between the Consolidated and Dentists squads. The first team got runners on second and third by virtue of a walk and a double. Bob Beck grounded to Allan Kronbach, the Dentists' shortstop, who threw to Catcher Elmer Frank to nip the runner at home.

Beck rounded first and drew Frank's throw to First Baseman Packler as the man who had been on second attempted to score. Packler's perfect return throw caught the runner at the plate. Beck continued to second and tried to make third. Frank's throw to the third sacker, Fred Nelson, glanced off the infielder's glove and went into the outfield.

Beck tried to score, but the outfielder's perfect peg to Frank nipped the runner for the third out.

Ahead 1 to 0 in the last half of the ninth inning when was pitching for the Mission Juniors, San Francisco semi-professionals, Italo Chelini, Chicago White Sox southpaw, struck out the last man to face him—and lost 2 to 1.

There was a man on first when I fanned the batter," Chelini explains. "The catcher missed the third strike, the runner tallied from first and, by the time my mates got through throwing the ball around, the batter also circled the bases with the winning run."

Combine Hitting And Pitching To Beat Cards Again

Gabler, Making First Mound Start, Wins 8 to 2; Chicago Cubs Win

Cleveland Gains Game on Yankees

Sports Combine hitting 25 in When Carl Hubbell and Mel Ott are right, Bill Terry's New York Giants go places. At the moment, both "the hub" and the "kid veteran" are red hot, so the Giants have taken two straight over the St. Louis Cards. Hubbell's pitching won Tuesday's game, and Ott, Gus Mancuso and young hurler, Gabby Gabler, making his first start of the season, combined to take an 8 to 2 decision yesterday.

With the Pittsburgh Pirates losing a 16 to 4 slugfest to the Phillies, in which Johnny Moore belted three homers, the Giants shot into third place and the Bucs slipped to fifth. The Cincinnati Reds, who won their second straight over the Boston Bees, 7 to 4, took over fourth place. The league lead of the Chicago Cubs was stretched to three full games by the Cardinals' defeat, as the Chicago champions nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 2, with Larry French posting his tenth pitching win.

The St. Louis Browns, who came out of the American League cellar by downing the New York Yankees Sunday and Tuesday, stretched the New Yorkers' losing streak to three—their longest of the season—yesterday, with a 6 to 4 win.

By the defeat, the Yankees' American League lead was cut to seven games, smallest it has been in weeks. For the second-place Cleveland Indians again slugged the Boston Red Sox, winning 8 to 3, with Earl Averill leading a nineteen-hit attack to drop the gold-plated Boston to fifth place.

The Chicago White Sox took over fourth place, just beating the Washington Senators in a twelve-inning pitching thriller that saw Johnny Whitehead beat Earl Whitehill, 3 to 2. The Detroit Tigers lost to the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 5, but managed to hang on to third place.

Pacific northwest ball teams, playing on home grounds, dominated Coast League play in doubleheaders yesterday evening, with Seattle stretching its lead over Oakland to three full games, and Portland displacing San Francisco's Missions in third place.

Seattle gained two games over the Acorns by taking both games from Sacramento, as the Oaks were being defeated by Portland, 5 to 2, 5 to 0.

The Missions won their game from San Diego, 3 to 1, but dropped into fourth place anyway. Los Angeles trimmed the San Francisco Seals, 7 to 4.

"KID" BERG IS STOPPED

British Lightweight Lasts Only Two Rounds Against Aldo Spoldi

New York, July 23.—End of the listle rail appeared near today for Jackie "Kid" Berg, once a contender for the lightweight championship of the world, following his knockout in two rounds at the hands of Aldo Spoldi, Italian lightweight champion, here yesterday evening.

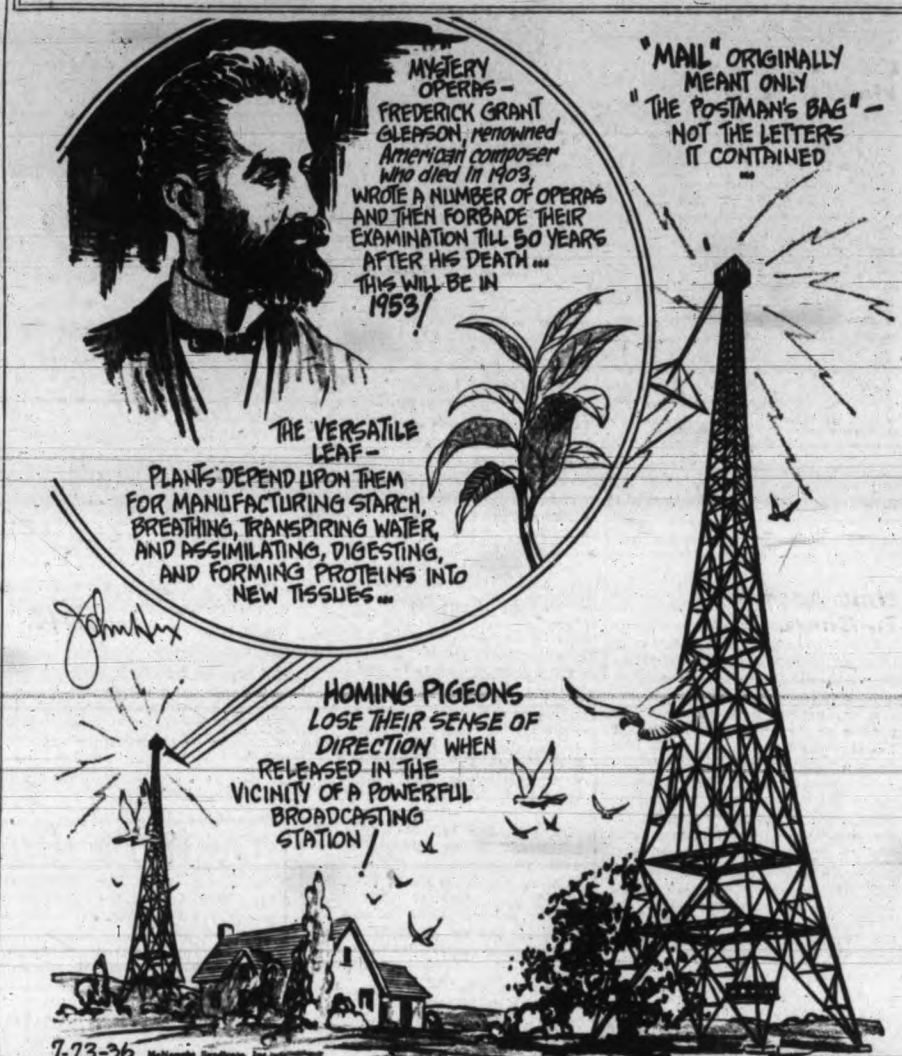

The Londoner, in his first appearance since returning to North America, was belted hard by the Italian. The "Whitechapel Whirlwind," who in 1930 gave Tony Canzoneri a beating, was put down three times in the second round before the referee stopped the fight.

During his golden years Berg fought them all. He holds decisions over Kid Chocolate, Billy Deolillo, Billy Wallace, Tony Herrera and several others. He was beaten by Sammy Fuller and Cleto Locatelli.

Recently retirement has shown its effects. He lost the British Empire lightweight title to Laurie Stevens at Johannesburg in January this year and was stopped at Liverpool in May by Jimmy Walsh.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Still on of the unexplained mysteries of nature is the remarkable sense which guides homing pigeons to their home roost. Numerous theories seek to explain it. One of the largest of these, and possibly the most logical, is that the pigeon's sense of direction is due to the semi-circular canals of its ear, which supposedly act as receiver for waves in the ether.

Be that as it may, it is a fact, definitely proven by numerous experiments, that even the best trained homing pigeons lose, to a large extent, their sense of direction when released in the vicinity of a powerful radio broadcasting station. The majority of them flutter aimlessly through the air for a while, then return to the boxes from which they were released. A few sometimes manage to start out on their proper course after taking much longer than usual to get their bearings.

It has also been observed that pigeons often have considerable trouble in locating the direction of their base during an electrical storm.

MAIL. Coming from the old Teutonic word "malah" or "malha" meaning "wallet," the present word "mail" was used in old French as "male," meaning "bag" or "trunk."

Adopted into the English language, it originally meant only the "post-man's bag" and then gradually evolved to its present meaning, pertaining to the letters and contents of the bag rather than the bag itself.

Tomorrow: Backward Champ.

Leading Longacres Jockey Suspended

Ken Root Handed Indefinite Suspension for Falsifying Name and Riding Record; May Be Barred for Life

Seattle, July 23.—Jockey Kenneth Willard Root, Kansas City, accused of falsifying his name and riding record at the Longacres track, was under indefinite suspension today, while Washington State horse racing commission considered a recommendation that he be barred for life.

Stewards at Longacres took action against Root on protest of Albert Zital, owner of Coin, which finished second to Translucent, owned by Mrs. Verna Stirling, Prineville, Ore., and ridden by Root last Sunday, under the name of apprentice William Root.

Zital contended Root was not entitled to a five-pound allowance, because the boy as "apprentice Kenneth Willard Root" had ridden his first winning mount at the Oaklawn race track, Hot Springs, Ark., in March, 1935.

Root's suspension removed a leading rider from Longacres. He had piloted twenty-one winners and led in the $500 Little riding contest.

FIVE C'S IN TIE FOR LEAD

Defeat Victoria by 56 Runs in the Final Game of the Payne Cup Series

Five C's went into a tie for first place with the Hudson's Bay cricketers yesterday when they defeated Victoria by 56 runs at Beacon Hill Park in the final game of the Payne Cup series.

Victoria batted first to lose four wickets for eleven runs and were all out in an hour for the small total of 46 runs. A feature of their innings was the steady exhibition at bat by Kinch, who knocked up 17 runs.

With the loss of only four wickets, Five C's passed their opponents' total. Whitehead scored 22 runs, including four four-run boundaries and Quanton had two sixes and two fours in his total.

Bowling well for the winning team, Percy Shrimpton took four wickets for 17 runs. Quanton took six wickets for 23 runs, while Moore and

Stan Leonard to Play at Winnipeg

Vancouver, July 23.—Stan Leonard, British Columbia amateur golf champion, will be added to the Canadian amateur tournament in Winnipeg this year, making it a five-man squad, it was announced yesterday evening by the British Columbia Golf Association.

Previously the team had consisted of only Ken Black, J. P. Robertson and George Thompson Jr., all of Vancouver, and J. Todd of Victoria, but Leonard, who at first refused to make the trip due to financial difficulties, later accepted, and it was decided to add his name, officials said.

The British Columbia team will leave July 28.

Ontario Favored For Golf Classic

Telegraph Sport Briefs

London, July 23.—Probably the best match of Hon. R. C. Matthews's Canadian cricket team's tour was postponed today. Scheduled to meet M.C.C. in a two-day match at Lord's, rain interfered and the teams will play a one-innings contest tomorrow. All county matches were also halted.

Marseilles, France, July 23.—One thousand French athletes arrived from Barcelona, Spain, today aboard the steamer Chella, shouting and singing in celebration of their safe delivery from the revolution.

"We were not molested," the athletes said, but they told stirring tales of the rebellion breaking before their eyes.

Boston, July 23.—Mrs. F. A. Carraud's Time Supply, five-year-old son of Time Maker, raced to a smashing three-length victory over P. A. Shaw's Gov. Sholtz, an outsider, yesterday in the first renewal of the $25,000 added Massachusetts Handicap before 45,000 at Suffolk Downs.

New York, July 23.—Kaye Don, the British speed king, arrived on the Europa yesterday to drive Horace E. Dodge's speedboat, Delphine VIII, in the Gold Cup race on Lake George, Saturday.

Don, who has done no racing since he was injured and his mechanic was killed while trying out a racing car on the Isle of Man a year ago, said he was still undecided about resuming his automobile racing career. His decision to pilot Delphine VIII was made on the spur of the moment.

Dallas, Texas, July 23.—Pete Sarron, little Birmingham jumping Jack, retained his national Boxing Association featherweight title here yesterday evening, with a clean-cut fifteen-round decision over Baby Manuel, touted Cuban scutumpah, in Texas's first titular battle.

Edmonton, July 23.—The present and three former provincial champions were named yesterday evening by the Alberta Golf Association to carry its bid into the annual inter-provincial team championships. Players who will compete for the Willingdon Cup, emblematic of the team title, are Henry Martell, Edmonton, this year's provincial titleholder; Stewart Vickers, Calgary, three-time winner of the crown, and Bob Proctor and "Whit" Matthews, both of Edmonton.

BRUINS ANNEX BALL LAURELS

Defeat Sidney 6 to 2 in B Section Softball Play-off; Other Results

Painter's Bruins yesterday evening won B Section softball laurels and the right to represent that section in the city championship play-downs, when they defeated the Sidney nine, 6 to 2, for their second straight victory in the play-offs.

The Bruins captured the first game, 9 to 3.

The Bruins played smart ball behind the excellent moundwork of Bert Simpson. They opened the scoring with a five-run spree in the third frame. The break in this inning came when two Bruins had been put out and Rivers, first sacker for Sidney, muffed a fly ball. Before the side had been retired the Bruins had sent a quintette of runners the distance. Painters got their only other marker in the seventh.

Sidney did their scoring in the fourth and sixth innings, with lone runs.

Score by innings: Painter's Bruins..... 005000100-6 Sidney..... 000101000-2 Batteries—Simpson and Berry; Byers and Lannon. Colbert's Grocery fought their way through to an 8 to 1 victory over the Victoria Longhorns in the initial fixture of the D Section play-offs.

Playing in a Feden Cup fixture, Esquimalt Meat Market trounced the Civil Service 11 to 2 at Stevenson's Memorial Park.

Jack Taylor's Cardinals were victorious over Saanichton, 17 to 13, in a women's league fixture, at Central Park, while Togo Cleaners won by default from the Jokers in a scheduled Feden Cup match, when the latter failed to turn up.

With Sandy Somerville Playing Easterners Reign Favorites for Willingdon Cup Interprovincial Match at Winnipeg August 3

Winnipeg, July 23.—Ontario, led by the redoubtable Ross "Sandy" Somerville, will parade its golf wares on the tricky-planned course of St. Charles Country Club here August 3, seeking its sixth inter-provincial team championship.

Ontario has held no monopoly on the inter-provincial title—far from it, for competition has been of the keenest—but shotsmiths from the eastern province have won the Willingdon Trophy and the team event five times since it was inaugurated in 1927.

Quebec has won the championship twice and British Columbia twice. Manitoba has been a dangerous challenger on several occasions, but quarterettes from other provinces have never threatened seriously.

This year, however, sterner opposition may be expected from the three prairie provinces where youngsters have uncovered a variety and accuracy in their shots rarely seen there until the last couple of seasons. Alberta and Saskatchewan particularly have developed golf remarkably.

Youth predominates, particularly on the prairie teams, although some of the youngsters slated for team play have had wide experience in the competition.

SANDY MAIN FIGURE. With such rivalry facing Ontario in its attempt to defend the Willingdon Cup won last year at Hamilton, Somerville becomes a central figure in the current classic. Never has Ontario won the championship without the assistance of the silent Scot from the London Hunt Club.

Only in the event's first year, when Quebec won, and in 1934, when British Columbia triumphed with a record low total of 596, has Ontario been defeated with Somerville a member of the team. In 1930 at Toronto, Ontario competed without "Sandy" and lost by a strike to Quebec. In 1933 at Vancouver, Somerville was absent in England and Ontario bowed to British Columbia by four strokes.

With "Sandy" plying his dangerous clubs for Ontario this year, therefore, that province must be regarded as favored to defend its crown and, if fully when the teams meet on the day preceding the opening round of the Canadian amateur championships.

LET'S TAKE A VACATION

Yellow Point Is Very Popular Summer Land

Tillicum Auto Camp Has Friendly Welcome for All Who Visit Point

It is the charm of the unexpected that always attracts the interest of the holiday seeker. The glories of a far-flung panorama from some quick turn in the trail—the cool shade of tall woodland trees, after the glare of the open road—a sandy bay where it seemed could only be a rocky shore. Vancouver Island abounds in just such unexpected delights—tiny coves, tumbling rivers and sandy shores. Gradually these little places are becoming known. Some, indeed, now vie with the bigger and better known resorts.

Yellow Point, just across from the bustling little city of Ladysmith, is fast becoming one of the most popular summer places on the whole island. A long, low-lying stretch of land, heavily wooded and cool in the shade of tall trees, Yellow Point extends in a long reaching finger, far out toward the small islands in the Gulf of Georgia. The road to the Point leaves the Island Highway just beyond Ladysmith. It is a good country road, well graveled, the kind of road that winds up over a hill and then as quickly wends its way down into a fern covered dale. It turns and circles through the trees—there are glimpses of the sea—but more often the tall trees sway high overhead, jealously guarding the panorama that burst so unexpectedly into view at the turn of the road.

It is at the turn of the road, too, that the vacationist receives a second surprise. For here is Tillicum Auto Camp, a modern, up-to-date court of cottages, store and main lodge, "Tillicum," in the language of Vancouver Island Indians, means—friend. And Tillicum Auto Camp has been patterned within the fullest meaning of that word. From the time the holiday seeker enters the tall swinging gates, this friendly atmosphere surrounds them. Mr. Jack, the genial proprietor of the camp, has the well-being of his guests at heart. His whole aim is to see that they enjoy their stay with him, and that the holiday at Yellow Point is indeed a success.

Just a little over a year ago, Mr. and Mrs. Jack came to Vancouver Island from northern British Columbia. On Yellow Point they found an old rambling farm home, acres of pleasant woodland and green fields that stretched right down to the edge of the sea. Mr. Jack saw the possibilities of this old farmstead—the vision of Tillicum Auto Camp as it is today—then he set to work to make his vision a reality. Last year he worked wonders, but it is this year of 1936 that has added the many little improvements that make this camp so completely modern and up-to-date. Little white cottages, trimmed in woodland green, nestle under the trees or along the shore. Each cottage has a wide veranda, comfortable beds and many unexpected little gadgets to make camp life easier. The old farm house has been remodelled into a main lodge. The farm garden, under Mr. Jack's supervision, is rich in fresh vegetables and fruits. There are young chickens and fresh eggs and cream and milk as well. In the little store on the grounds can be found all the staple goods one may need. Down on the shore, Mr. Jack has constructed among the rocks several safe wading pools for the smaller children. There is also splendid swimming facilities, boats and excellent fishing.

Yellow Point should be of interest not only to visitors to Vancouver Island, but to all those who love the great outdoors. No better place could be found to spend a vacation. An automobile from Tillicum Auto Camp will meet guests in Ladysmith who may come by bus or train.

KAMLOOPS TROUT IN LAKES OF PLATEAU

A few years ago many of the lakes on the Forbidden Plateau were stocked with the sporty, fighting Kamloops trout, with the result that some of the finest fishing on the island is now to be found far up in these mountain lakes. Recently Lloyd Morgan, young guide at Croteau Lake, was fishing in Croteau Lake, where the camp is situated. He caught a trout thirty-one inches in length.

Obituary

LIEUT.-COL. HENRY G. NAPPER
The death occurred at the Royal Jubilee Hospital this morning of Lieut.-Col. Henry George Napper, M.C., 626 Victoria Avenue, aged sixty-five years. He was born in East Wittering, near Chichester, Sussex, England, and was for many years in the Canadian Pacific Railway service, coming to this city a few months ago.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. E. G. Ferne, Victoria, two sons in Winnipeg and one in Victoria, and three grandsons. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Former Hudson's Bay Man Is Laid to Rest

Private funeral services were held this afternoon over the remains of George Robert Robson of 1243 St. Patrick Street, who passed away Tuesday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Rev. R. Connell conducted the service, and the pallbearers were: Walter Crompton, Geo. S. McTavish, H. M. S. Cotter, Christy Harding, W. Reace and Ronald M. Angus. Many beautiful flowers were received. Interment was in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Mr. Robson had been a resident of Victoria for thirty-five years, and prior to that was a branch manager for the Hudson's Bay Co. since 1885 at Fort Simpson, Yale, Nelson and the Kootenay district. He was awarded the Hudson's Bay medal for long and meritorious service upon his retirement.

He joined up with the Rocky Mountain Rangers at the commencement of the war in 1915, and was with them for some time until he was transferred to the Ordnance Department at Signal Hill in 1917, where he remained until the end of the war.

He leaves his widow and youngest daughter, Miss Faith Robson, at the family home and one son, Bertram George Robson, Nanaimo, B.C., his eldest daughter, Mrs. Walter B. Crompton, in Vancouver, and five grandchildren.

Fire Chiefs Visit City
Delegates to the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs' Convention, which concluded yesterday in Seattle, were visitors to Victoria today, arriving and leaving by the Seattle boat.

They were greeted here by Ald. T. W. C. Hawkins, chairman of the firewardens of the City Council, and Deputy Chief Robert Taylor. Ald. Hawkins and Chief Alex Munroe attended the luncheon at Victoria delegates.

The chief is now on vacation and is still on the mainland.

Chief Munroe was made a director of the association during the meeting.

While in Seattle Ald. Hawkins spoke over the air on behalf of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, outlining Victoria's attractions as a tourist centre.

WOMAN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT
Creston, B.C., July 23.—Mrs. H. Oby of Vancouver was in the hospital here today with back injuries suffered when an automobile in which she was riding skidded in loose gravel and plunged off the road between Sirdar and Kuskanoak, about fifteen miles north of here on the shore of Kootenay Lake.

Mrs. Oby's husband and daughter were in the vehicle when it left the road, rolled over four times, and stopped fifty feet below against a tree. They suffered only minor injuries.

The party was on the way to Drumheller, Alta.

HAILE SELASSIE HAS BIRTHDAY
Worthing, Eng., July 23.—Haile Selassie, toying with the idea of going to the United States to enlist popular sympathy for Ethiopia, celebrated his forty-fifth birthday today.

Disillusioned and sad, he spent a quiet day in contrast to the last formal observance of his anniversary in Addis Ababa with his great feast and his chiefs and warriors.

The adjournment was taken pending the results of these proceedings by the mainland police.

Reduction of interest rates on realty and municipal loans from 4 1/2 to 3 1/2 per cent, recently announced by the government, will mean an annual saving of $3,000 to the city. The city has borrowed $300,000 from the government since 1934. This included $100,000 for the same purpose in 1935 and a $100,000 public works loan this year.

More people than were anticipated took part in the outings and it was necessary to bring out the unlicensed machines for the occasion. The penalty was $10 fine and $2 costs in each case.

Mystery Plane Owner Traced
Montreal, July 23.—Ownership of a mystery plane which landed at a United States airport two months ago and took off a few minutes after its pilot had struck an officer of the New York air police was traced in court today to a ring of alleged smugglers.

At preliminary hearing of Samuel Cyroos and Ernest Lavole, charged with conspiring to smuggle liquor into Canada and defraud the Dominion Government of excise duties, Ray Cormier, Woonsocket, R.I., was described as owner of the airplane.

Cormier is sought by authorities as a member of the ring which police said had smuggled more than $1,000,000 worth of alcohol into Canada within the last year. Cyroos and Lavole, ordered for voluntary surrender July 29, were arrested last week-end when the plane was seized.

Detroit, July 23.—An apology from Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin to President Roosevelt for the use of the word "liar" he used in a reference to the President in a recent Cleveland address, will appear in the periodical Social Justice tomorrow.

New Parasite Army Is Ready

Entomological Laboratory to Release 40,000 Against Earwigs

An army of 40,000 anti-earwig parasites will be released against the earwig hordes very shortly, according to an announcement made today by W. Downes, Dominion Entomologist.

This will be the third and largest parasite army put in the field against the pest by the laboratory here.

The first parasites were released last year when 20,000 were set free in Victoria and vicinity and 5,000 in Vancouver.

The second army of 25,000 parasites was turned loose against the earwigs on the mainland at the beginning of this month.

The new army of parasites will be scattered in different districts on the island and on the mainland. Mr. Downes expects to release about 10,000 on-island and an equal number in Saanich while the rest will be shipped to Vancouver.

The Dominion entomologist reports catching the occasional fly showing that the parasites which were released last year have become established.

At the present time about 3,000 earwigs are being parasitized every day.

Some gardeners are under the impression that earwigs are fewer this year, but Mr. Downes does not think so.

"Come with me," he said to a reporter from The Times who visited the parasite laboratory at the Parliament Buildings today, "and I'll show you a few earwigs."

In one of the laboratories he picked up a tobacco tin and opened it. There was a wriggling, crawling mass of earwigs which half filled the tin.

"There's three-quarters of a pint of earwigs there," said Mr. Downes, "about 5,000, and I collected them off five trees this morning."

Along the shelf were milk bottles full of earwigs which will be used for parasitizing. The earwigs looked like a lot of seeds in the bottles and they were alive. Other insects would be suffocated in such a pack but earwigs seem to be able to stand "lots of company."

Mr. Downes points out that it will be years before the parasites will have any appreciable effect on the earwigs as the plant pests got a long start and there are billions of earwigs and only a few thousand parasites.

APPEAL COURT RULE AWAITED
Validity of Taxi Soliciting By-law Will Be Taken to Higher Court

Pending decision of the Court of Appeal on the validity of the city by-law prohibiting taxi soliciting from boats in the harbor, sixteen charges against two men will be adjourned until September in the City Police Court.

The men are Fred Tubman of the Gray Line and Joe Lindal, sixteen-year-old, who has nine charges against him and the latter seven. They are all similar charges alleging similar occurrences took place on separate days.

Carew Martin, acting for the defendants, asked for an adjournment to await the outcome of the appeal.

C. L. Harrison, prosecutor, was ready to agree if the defendants would undertake to discontinue the practice while the case was pending. The defendants gave the undertaking.

VIMY SERVICE HERE SUNDAY
Veterans Will Parade to Beacon Hill Park

Arrangements have been made to hold a drumhead memorial service Sunday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park at 3 o'clock, to mark the occasion of the unveiling and dedication of the Canadian War Memorial at Vimy Ridge by His Majesty King Edward VIII.

All ex-servicemen are requested to fall in on Humboldt Street, between Douglas and Government Streets, in mufti and wearing medals. Poppies will be supplied there.

The parade will move off at 2.30 o'clock and take up a position on markers in the Mayor's Grove at 2.50 o'clock. Detachments from H.M.S. Apollo, the Royal Canadian Navy, M.D. No. 11, non-permanent forces, together with nursing sisters and women's auxiliaries, will complete the square.

Illustrate New Electric Rates

Examples of Reductions in Light Bills Under New Schedule Are Given

To give domestic consumers some idea of the reductions which new electric current rates will make in their accounts, the B.C. Electric Railway Company this morning supplied the following examples for illustrations, all being based on a consumption of 100 kilowatt hours:

House of 1,000 square feet floor area, minimum consumption, thirty kilowatt hours; old rate, 6 cents per k.w. hour for thirty hours, or $1.80, and 3 cents per k.w. hour for remaining seventy k.w. hours, or $2.10, making a total of $3.90. Under the new rate the secondary rate is 2 cents a kilowatt hour, or $1.40, reducing the total to $3.20, a saving of 70 cents.

House of 1,100 square feet; minimum, thirty-two kilowatt hours; old rate, $3.96; new rate, $3.28.

House of 1,500 square feet; minimum, forty k.w. hours; old rate, $4.20; new rate, $3.60.

House of 2,000 square feet; minimum, fifty k.w. hours; old rate, $4.50; new rate, $4.00.

In the above instances both old and new rates are based on the new minimums which have been revised for the benefit of the consumer.

POLICE CHIEF LAUDS FILM

"Wonderful Lesson," He Says of "And Sudden Death" at Dominion

"It is a wonderful lesson. In fact, it is the best safety-film I have ever seen. I strongly urge the public to see it," commented Thomas Heatley, Victoria's chief of police, after viewing this morning a private showing of the much-publicized Zukor production "And Sudden Death," which opens tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre.

A thrilling drama of danger and romance, the picture featuring Randolph Scott, Frances Drake, Tom Brown and Billy Lee, depicts in graphic fashion the appalling loss of human life resulting from reckless auto driving, which, as disclosed in the story, "claimed 36,000 victims, 100 lives each day, or one every fifteen minutes," last year.

Betty Winslow, speed-mad, reckless driving and irresponsible socialite, drives her car wide open on the highway without giving the slightest thought to traffic regulations.

The fourth being cautioned for speeding by the traffic patrolman and taken before Lieut. James Knox (Randolph Scott), who has been detailed to organize a drive against auto deaths.

Determined to teach the girl a lesson, Knox has her sentenced to attend his "traffic school for delinquents," where he impresses her by means of dramatic illustrations, of the insanity of reckless driving.

A romance develops out of the meeting of the pair, but is shattered and the lives of all concerned upset by a frightful auto crash in which Jackie Winslow (Tom Brown), Betty's brother, crashes head-on into a school bus, killing Bobby Sanborn (Billie Lee), son of one of Knox's traffic officers.

Because her brother was under the influence of liquor when the crash occurred, Betty assumes the blame, and is charged with manslaughter. Jackie, as the trial approaches, informs his sister that he has gained Knox's promise that "everything will be all right."

In court, Betty is stunned when she hears Knox giving testimony which is certain to convict her. She feels that he has turned against her and broken his word.

Sent to the penitentiary, Betty secures her release only after a second smash-up, in which the worthless brother is fatally injured when trying to escape the police and drives his car over a bridge embankment.

On being released, and learning that her brother lied about his talk with Knox, Betty finds her love unchanged and the romance ends happily.

STRANGE FISH IS IDENTIFIED

A weird tropical flat fish, sky-blue in color with red fins, caught by a salmon trawler off Kyquot, has been identified by provincial museum experts as an "opah."

The fish is twenty-two inches long, fourteen inches deep and shaped like any other flat fish. Its blue body is dotted with white. Its eyes are yellow.

Museum officials had some difficulty determining what kind of a fish it was and sent a detailed description to the Dominion Biological Station at Nanaimo. Its identity was later confirmed this morning by a fish expert. This type of fish, it was stated, has been found in Atlantic and Pacific waters but not usually this far north.

Who's Who At Hotels

"I think we have now sold the Northwest so effectively that we are beginning to get the advantage of it," said Frank Hickey, manager of the Tacoma Hotel, in an interview at the Empress Hotel this morning. "We had been hoping against hope that business would come back, and it has come back while we were still looking to it as something in the future."

Mr. Hickey is in Victoria today conducting a party of Los Angeles people on a tour of the Northwest. The group, made up of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Walsh, Mrs. J. J. McKone and Miss Violet Greene, came here by way of Vancouver and Nanaimo, and will leave this evening for Puget Sound en route to Quinalt before returning to Tacoma.

Business at the Tacoma Hotel is 50 per cent better than last year, and over the 1929 level, according to Mr. Hickey.

He believes the soldiers' bonus has done a good deal to stimulate travel in the United States, but he believes the chief reason for the increase is the realization on the part of many people that in the present age money is best employed in getting the fullest enjoyment out of it, and that one of the best ways of achieving that is in travel.

He has noticed a change in the type of people who make up the tourist influx into the Pacific northwest. They are a higher class of people, staying in better hotels and spending more money, and a higher proportion of them are more elderly than in former years.

Names of visitors from California have ceased to occupy the major part of the Hotel Douglas register, as they did earlier in the season, and home towns of tourists stopping here are increasingly diverse. Among those registered today are: Mrs. J. L. Morley, Yonkers, N.Y.; G. F. Cliffe and family, Kingston, Ont.; Miss Adelaide Anderson, Potlatch, Idaho; Robert S.  Four former champions started, but not one was in the field of sixteen survivors from scattered sections of the nation and Hawaii.
 If there were any favorites in the cross-section field of men and boys they probably were Claude Rippey, Washington, co-medalist, and Pat Abbot, the movie extra from Pasadena, Calif. The two were listed in opposite brackets, and most of the

"Hi Gaucho" at Atlas Theatre

John Carroll Plays Lead; Edward Everett Horton in Second Picture

One hundred and thirty-five years ago, before railroads pierced the interior of Argentina and began the substitution of enlightened progress for primitive adventure, the pampas of that land trembled beneath the horses of one of the most colorful figures in American history—the gaucho. This intriguing character is the central figure in the new musical film romance, "Hi, Gaucho," being shown at the Atlas Theatre.
 Typified by the singer-soldier of fortune, John Carroll—the gaucho is shown as he was—daring, horseman, reckless fighter, ardent gallant.
 Opposite Carroll, as the noble senorita, is the exotic Hungarian actress, Steffi Duna. Five songs were composed for the musical comedy drama by Albert Hay Malotte, including "Song of the Open Road," "Bandit Song," "Little White Rose," a serenade and a folk song. Rod LaRoque, Montagu Love, Tom Ricketts, Paul Porcasi and Ann Corcoran are prominent in the cast. Tommy Atkins directed this "RKO Radio" Picture.
 Also being shown is Edward Everett Horton in "The Private Secretary."

BRITISH ARE HEAVY CHOICE

Experts Predict English Davis Cup Tennis Squad Will Score 4-1 Win

London, July 23.—With Adrian Quist, Australian champion, injured and possibly unable to play, experts yesterday predicted a 4 to 1 victory for Great Britain in her defence of the International tennis prize—the Davis Cup—against Australia starting Saturday.

The decision whether Quist, who injured his right arm against Gottfried von Cramm of Germany in the inter-zone final last Saturday, will play has not been made. Earlier this week, his physician ordered Quist to take a ten-day rest.
 The Anna's titleholder's place probably again will be taken by Vivian McGrath, who filled in for him in the doubles and one singles match against Germany. The other half of Australia's bid to recapture the trophy lost in 1920 to the United States will be borne by the veteran Jack Crawford.

BRITISH TEAM
 Britain, as usual, will bank on her old favorites, Fred Perry and H. W. "Bunny" Austin, backed up by Charlie Tuckey and Pat Hughes in the doubles.
 Both Perry and Austin are in good physical and mental trim, the former demonstrating his fitness in the recent all-England championship, which he won for the third time.
 Hughes and Tuckey still are going like a house afire, continuing the form which gave them the all-England doubles title a fortnight ago.

players figured they were the two most likely to reach the thirty-six hole final Saturday.
 Rippey faced Honolulu's sole representative, Kammy Lau, in the third round.
 Abbot was challenged by Donald Socoli, New Britain, Conn., gasoline station man.
 George Stindinger, a cab driver from Burlingame, Calif., who took Frankie Strafe, Brooklyn, defending champion, for a ride, one up, drew Harry Umbreit, Seattle steel worker, as his third foe.
 Two eighteen-hole matches were on today's programme, which will reduce the field to four. The semifinals and final will be decided over thirty-six holes tomorrow and Saturday.

Mystery Comedy At the Columbia

Patrons viewing "One Frightened Night," the Mascot mystery comedy at the Columbia Theatre this week, probably do not realize they saw a screen star not on the billing.
 Roger Pryor was at Mascot to sign up for a newspaper story, "The Head-up for a newspaper story, 'The Head-up Woman.' He visited the 'Frightened Night' set just as Director Christy Cabanne prepared to film a masked figure seizing Mary Carlisle. Pryor grabbed both the mask and Mary as a joke. But the cameraman was not joking, so the scene went into the picture.
 Also being shown on this programme is Gene Autry in "The Singing Vagabond."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am nineteen years old and am in love with a pro- fessional man who is sixty. I have known him all my life and loved him from the time I was a small child and have always said that when I have grown I would marry him. I have been going around with him to places ever since I was sixteen and he has always been good to me. We have talked over marriage and both our families agree to it, but he is afraid that I am too young and that when I am older I may find a younger man and be sorry for having married him. But that will not hap- pen because he fills my heart as no boy does. When love is this strong and has lasted so long, don't you think we can make a go of it?

VENITA.

Answer—Ordinarily, I should say that a gap of forty-one years between a husband and wife is too much even for love to span, and that there is small chance of happiness for either one in such an unequal marriage.

But your case is such a very peculiar one that the general objections to a May-and-December wedding do not seem as valid as they are in most cases. Your love for this man so much your senior seems an obsession. For a little child to have fallen in-love with a man older than her father and for this love to have grown with her growth and strengthened with her strength, and for her never to have faltered in her determination to marry him is an almost uncanny romance. It is as if it were something predestined, something settled by Fate, and with that one dares not meddle.

Evidently you are an old soul, as our philosophical friends would say, or else youth would call to you instead of age. So, perhaps, your calendar age does not matter.

The danger of an old man marrying a young girl is very real, because, as a general thing, they not only have nothing in common, but their point of view is antagonistic, and this was never more true than now when all the traditions, habits, morals and manners by which the older generation was reared have gone into the discard and new ones substituted by the youngsters of today.

In your fiance's youth, women wore bustles and a dozen petticoats and it was forward for a girl to show her ankles. Now girls wear shorts. Then no lady smoked, nor drank more than a glass of wine. Now they are human smokestacks and boast of the number of cocktails they can carry.

Then no girl worked outside of her home, or walked the streets unat- tended at night. Now nearly every girl has a job and girls roam the world alone. Then the admired girl was sweet and gentle and innocent. Now she poses as sophisticated. And so on and on.

So it is easy to see why a girl of nineteen and a man of sixty may find it hard to adjust themselves to each other. Nothing but a great and miraculous love can do it.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—You tell the men that they should be affectionate to their wives. What about wives being affectionate to their husbands? Especially to husbands on the farm who are continually worried with jump- ing stock, broken fences, lazy hands, etc.? A worried man does not think to be as affectionate as he should, so don't you think his wife should meet him with a smile and loving words and help him forget his worries? He would be more in love with her if she would do her part of the love-making instead of being so silent and hard with him. Also, don't you think that when a husband and wife are separated that they should settle their differ- ences alone without other people interfering?

A READER.

Answer—I agree with you that it is just as important for wives to keep up the courting and love-making after marriage as it is for the husbands to do so. Also I think that the wife who expects her husband to take her affection for granted makes just as big a mistake as the husband does who expects his wife to be mind-reader enough to know that he loves her and thinks her the greatest woman in the world, al- though he never gives her a kiss that isn't like a flabby pancake on her cheek or pays her a compliment.

Every man has plenty of things to worry him whether it is jumping stock or a jumping stock market; whether it is broken fences or bankrupt business; whether it is lazy hands or a cantankerous boss. There is no manner of doubt that it would cheer him up and make him feel that all his labor was worth while if his wife would meet him with a glad, sweet smile and tell him that in her eyes no hero had anything on him in courage, devotion to duty and in the grit with which he met the trials of life, and that she thanked God on her knees for having given him to her for a husband.

But how about it if the husband comes home grumpy and cross and grouchy, and if he kicks the cat as soon as he opens the door, spansks the baby, finds fault with the dinner and never even notices how hard his wife has worked taking care of the children and making a comfortable home?

In order to be kissed you have to keep yourself kissable. In order to be loved you have to be lovable. No woman is going to kiss a husband who comes in looking like a graven image and who turns the back of his head to her lips. Maybe if you would be a little more responsive your wife would be a little more demonstrative.

Certainly a husband and wife should settle their own differences without any one refereeing their fights. If they did, a lot more of them would end in a draw instead of a divorce. Family squabbles should be strictly private.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Several days ago through mistake I opened one of Mother's letters thinking it was mine. To my horror I found it was from a strange man who, it seems, is her lover. Since that moment I have been nearly crazy. I cannot stand it to think that my Mother is that kind of a woman. In my panic I burned the letter, telling no one. Shall I tell my father? Shall I demand an explanation of my mother? Or shall I keep silent?

WORRIED.

Answer—Don't tell your father, but go to your mother and let her see how your knowledge of wrong-doing has shattered all of your ideals and broken your heart. Surely, if anything can touch her and turn her away from the evil course she is pursuing, it will be that. Psychologists tell us that nothing so completely wrecks the morale of children as to lose their faith in their mothers.

Uncle Wiggily and the Jumping Rope

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily's rheumatism was bother- ing him. He couldn't quite understand why, for it was a lovely day, with the sun shining, and usually his rheumatism did pain only when it was raining, or going to rain.

"I wonder if that's it, that it is going to rain," he said to himself. "But there's not a cloud in the sky. I know what I'll do. I'll take a walk in the woods, very slowly, and perhaps the ache will go away. Sometimes it works like that."

So he took his cane and started off. At first it was hard to get going, but after a while the way his legs felt, but after a while it grew easier, as all things do when we keep at them. And Uncle Wiggily was really enjoying himself under the trees.

"I suppose," he murmured with a sigh, "that I had an adventure the rheumatism would all go away. I'd forget about it. I notice that when things happen we don't think about ourselves. So, I shall try to find an adventure!"

He listened, but not a single adventure- noise did he hear. He winked his pink nose, but he couldn't even smell a sign of an adventure.

"I'll just go along this path," he de- cided. "I'm not sure where it leads to. Maybe things will happen."

SMALL CLEARING

The path led to a small clearing, and when he got there, Uncle Wiggily saw Sammie and Susie Littlebell, his rabbit children, playing at rope jumping. One end of the rope was tied to a tree, and Sammie was turning the other end, while Susie hopped over.

"Salt vinegar, mustard, pepper!" Susie sang as she jumped. "Now turn fast, Sammie, fast as pepper!"

"And how fast is that?" Uncle Wiggily chuckled. "I know pepper! It was hot, but I didn't think it was fast!"

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" Susie exclaimed. "I'm awfully glad to see you! Would you like to jump a while?"

"No, thanks," Mr. Longears replied, and made a funny face, for he felt a twinge of rheumatism. "I don't quite feel like it. But I'll turn for you, and then you won't have to tie the end of the rope to the tree."

"Thank you," Sammie cried. "It's a real fun that way. And then I can have a turn. I'm really a pretty good jumper, and he laughed to show he wasn't serious, for jumping is sort of a girl's game, isn't it? Well, Uncle Wiggily untied the rope for Sammie and Susie, and took one end and he and Sammie started to turn. Susie hopped faster and faster, until she was all out of breath.

"That was fine!" she panted. And now I'll turn, and—

THE FOX!

But she stopped there, for there was a rustling in the brush, and out leaped the bad old Fox!

"So, if there's any jumping to be done, I'll do it!" he growled. "And it will be right at you, Uncle Wiggily! Get ready, wares I come!"

"Gracious," gasped the poor rabbit, and wondered how he was going to get out of this. He still held the rope, and all of a sudden he tossed one end over the branch of the tree. It twisted around and held firm.

Then Uncle Wiggily grabbed the rope hard and swung, just as you do on a trapeze! He swung himself toward the Fox, and hit him right on the nose!

"Wow!" yelled the Fox. "Oh, my nose! I don't like to get hit like that, and now it will swell up! I'll have to soak it in cold water!"

"Good shot, Uncle Wiggily!" Sammie laughed. "It was just like circus! You're a circus performer, Uncle Wiggily!"

The rabbit gentleman winked his ears gaily. And do you know, his rheumatism was all gone. He'd forgotten all about it in the excitement.

And tomorrow night, if the bedstead doesn't get wrinkled, Uncle Wiggily will tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the first dog.

GULF ISLANDS FERRY CO. LIMITED

Believe Vessel Went to Bottom

Tampa, Fla., July 22.—Southern seas tossed up two oil drums and a provisions box yesterday to strengthen fears that sudden disaster ended the voyage of the British motorship Munoca, which dropped out of sight after sailing from Georgetown, Grand Cayman Island, July 4, for this port.

Searching United States coastguard cutters found the floating objects far down in the Florida Keys. There is no definite knowledge the drums and the box came from the Munoca, but seamen here believed they did and believe the ship went down with all twenty-two persons aboard.

Seven coastguard boats continued to search the Florida Straits, the southeastern Gulf of Mexico, the Yucatan Channel and the Caribbean Sea.

The 110-foot craft was due here July 9.

CADETS READY FOR BIG DAY

Will Welcome Their Parents and Friends Saturday; Were Inspected Yesterday

Parents and friends of members of the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps, now in annual summer camp at Rodd Hill, will be welcomed at the camp Saturday afternoon for the annual sports meet.

Many interesting events have been planned, both on water and ashore. A boat will leave the public wharf at the foot of Pioneer Street, Esquimalt, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon for Rod Hill.

Between the water and land events there will be an hour's interval for tea, which will be served by members of the ladies' auxiliary to the Navy League.

Yesterday the boys were inspected by Commander C. T. Beard, R.C.N., commander-in-charge at the Esquimalt Naval Barracks, who was accompanied by Lieut.-Commander J. C. I. Edwards, R.C.N.

The two naval officials were received with a formal salute. Later the boys, in the two cutters and the two whalers, sailed past the wharf, on which stood the officers.

Commander Beard inspected the corps and the camp, personally inspecting all the tents.

After much difficulty he awarded the efficiency flag to boat No. 8. This flag is annual awarded to the cleanest and most seamanlike tent at the camp.

The commander spoke briefly to the boys, congratulating them on the high standard of the camp and their work. As he embarked aboard his launch to return to Esquimalt the boys gave him three cheers.

Canadian Airways Fleet Is Growing

In addition to the Lockheed Electra, purchase of which was notified a week ago, Canadian Airways now announces the purchase of a second aircraft of the same type. The Lockheed Electra is identical with those used by Northwest Airlines and other companies who hold contracts for carrying the United States mail.

Further additions to the Canadian Airways fleet are two Stinsons—"Reliant" model, powered with Lycoming motors of 260 horsepower.

In response to a demand by mining executives for a speedy service catering particularly to passengers, it has been decided to operate these two machines in the Red Lake and Central Manitoba mining areas.

The cabins are finely appointed and extremely comfortable. Seats are large, deeply padded and there is leg room to spare. Accommodation is provided for four passengers, in addition to the pilot.

As a seaplane, the Stinson Reliant has a top speed of 130 miles per hour and cruises at 110 miles per hour.

C. H. Dickinson, superintendent of northern operations, left Winnipeg Thursday for Wayne, Michigan, to take delivery of the first Stinson.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners have been advised by Col. A. W. R. Wilby, local agent for Department of Marine, that an unwatched flashing white light has been established on the top pinnacle of Solander Island, off Cape Cook, on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The gas and whistling buoy moored about a quarter of a mile westward of Solander Island having been discontinued.

They have also been advised the flashing white light on the south side of the channel at the outer entrance to the North Arm of the Fraser River has been moved to the jetty extension, approximately 3,000 feet northwest from its former position. This light will show forty flashes per minute.

C.N.R. Receives Message of Congratulation From Mayor Leeming

Winnipeg, July 23.—Western Canada expressed its good wishes and anniversary greetings in a big way Tuesday when civic officials of Winnipeg telegraphed to the Canadian National Railways congratulating the system upon the celebration on its hundredth birthday.

These messages were in addition to those which poured in from eastern Canadian cities and business dignitaries alike.

Mayor Cragg of Halifax and Mayor David Leeming of Victoria, B.C., brought the eastern and western shores of Canada together with their messages of felicitations. In addition to Mayor Leeming, of Victoria, the Kiwanis Club of that city after listening to an address on the railway centenary sent a message of good wishes to President Hungerford.

Mayor Leeming said, in part: "May your ribbons of steel continue to carry prosperity to our Dominion in the years to come and we hope Canadian National service will remain stamped with the hall mark of efficiency and quality."

Hon. Harcourt Malcolm, K.C., Speaker of the Assembly in the accident with Mrs. Malcolm is visiting Winnipeg, wired best wishes for the continued success of so historic an institution.

Tom Reid, M.P., wired from New Westminster the hope the railways will make as large a contribution in the future as they have the first hundred years.

FROM WINNIPEG

Mayor John Queen, Winnipeg, wired congratulations, "As the first hundred years are the hardest, hope your troubles are all behind you and you continue to make progress which means the success of Canada."

May the Canadian National continue to provide adequate modern and safe transportation to the citizens of Canada, its shareholders. City of New Westminster appreciates fair treatment received from Canadian National and assures continued co-operation."

Other messages were received from W. J. Alder, commissioner, Prince Rupert; Mayor Ellison, Regina and Mayor E. W. Provise, Vernon.

REMAND MEN OF GIRL PAT

Captain of Run-away Trawler and His Brother to Answer Charges in Guiana

Georgetown, British Guiana, July 23.—Captain George Black, skipper of the once elusive Grimsby trawler Girl Pat, and his brother Jim were remanded to Friday when they appeared in court yesterday to answer charges of larceny on warrants arriving from England.

The hearing was brief. Acting inspector-general of police, C. E. Widdup, described how he identified the Girl Pat, a trawler captured off Georgetown June 10.

The capture came more than three months after the vessel disappeared from the North Sea fishing banks and it was reported Captain Black and his crew were in search of buried treasure when they headed the Girl Pat for the South Seas.

The warrants against the two brothers were issued in the Metropolitan Police Court, London, together with depositions for several persons, including Tom Moore, William Charles, Angel Hacker, all of Grimsby, Eng. and George Frederick Jefferson of Milford Haven, Eng.

Major Widdup testified he found the ship's name under a thin piece of board on which the ship's bell was secured. The registered ship-pling number of the Girl Pat along with the name of her builders also was found on the boat after her capture off Georgetown.

Large Yacht Runs Ashore

Quebec, July 23.—The yacht Oiseau Blanc, owned by Baron Emile de Belgien, was still aground in the Portneuf and Deschambault, signal service reported today.

The large pleasure craft, carrying a crew of forty-two, grounded on a rock bed Tuesday night, about four miles west of Quebec. It was the third summer, twice before she grounded in the St. Lawrence, at Port-Moulin and off Anticosti Island.

The tug Lord Strathcona was at anchor close by the yacht, "signal service" reported, but poor visibility made it impossible to move the Oiseau Blanc.
